- CONG VOTE SHARE IN HARYANA JUST 0.85% BEHIND BJP, BUT SEAT DIFFERENCE 11

'Double-engine' sarkar for 3rd consecutive time

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

HARYANA

DESPITE facing huge anti-incumbency, farmers' unrest, protest by wrestlers and widespread discontent over the Agniveer scheme, the BJP managed to retain power for the third consecutive term in Haryana. No party has won a third consecutive term in the state ever since its inception in 1966. This mandate for the 'double-engine sarkar' could have a bearing on the forthcoming polls in Jharkhand, Maharashtra and Delhi.

While the BJP got 48 seats — 8 more than 2019 — and crossed the halfway mark of 46, it was just 0.85% ahead of the Congress in terms of vote share. The Congress had a whopping 11.01% positive swing, yet it could add just six seats to its 2019 tally of 31. The AAP scored a duck but polled 1.79% votes. At hindsight, had the Congress done a deal with AAP, it could have possibly made a winning combination.

Analysts blamed the Congress debacle on its infighting, flawed ticket distribution and party leader Bhupinder Singh Hooda's undue emphasis on the Jat vote bank, which comprises almost 27% of the state's electorate. Sirsa MP and the party's SC face Kumari Selja's animosity with Hooda appears to have played a key role in the party's loss. The Muslim vote bank, however, remained firmly behind the Congress.

Talking to this daily, Dr S S Chahar, former director of the Centre for Haryana Studies in Rohtak, said, "The micro management by the ruling BJP was perfect. Also, the RSS played a vital role in sorting out intra-party differences in the BJP. The migrant and floating votes went to the party. And the BJP vote was silent this time. Besides, Chief Minister Nayab Singh Saini was accessible to the public." The party also managed to get SC votes and the support of women self-help groups in villages.

National Conference gets the right to rule

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

JAMMU & KASHMIR

IN the first assembly polls in Jammu and Kashmir after Article 370's abrogation, the National Conference did spectacularly well to bag 42 seats and get the right to form the new government with the Congress, its alliance partner. For all the high-pitched campaign by the BJP, its 'Naya Kashmir' narrative managed to add just four seats, taking its tally to 29.

NC leader Omar Abdullah would be the new chief minister. The Congress performed poorly in the Jammu region, picking up just one of its six seats there — Rajouri (ST). The other five came from the Kashmir valley. CPI (M) leader Mohammad Yousuf Tarigami, who is an ally of NC-Congress, retained his Kulgam seat for the fifth consecutive time. The tally could go up as at least two NC and Congress rebels each contested and won. They are likely to return to their parties.

The NC's strike rate was very high, having contested from just 51 seats. It had a positive swing of 2.66% votes as compared to the last assembly elections in 2014, but in terms of seats it captured 27 more. Besides, the NC and Congress had friendly fights on five seats. Omar's party also won seven seats in the Jammu region.

The election result is a setback for the BJP. Its president in J&K Ravindra Raina lost to NC's Surinder Chodhary from his home constituency in Nowshera in Rajouri.

Jubilant NC and Congress workers danced and burst crackers to celebrate their voctory. "The result has shown that the NC is a force to reckon with and can't be crushed," said a party worker Ghulam Ahmed. Omar, who had initially reluctant to enter the assembly poll fray till the restoration of statehood, contested from two seats — Budgam and Ganderbal — and won both.

Haryana win a vote for development: Modi

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

PM Narendra Modi and BJP chief JP Nadda at the party HQ in Delhi on Tuesday | PARVEEN NEGI

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday said that voters in Haryana chose truth, development, and good governance over negativity and falsehood. Addressing BJP workers at the party headquarters here, Modi said the people accepted the BJP's guarantee of development and rejected the Opposition's pack of lies, giving the saffron party its third consecutive victory in the state. "In the land of Gita, truth and development and good governance have won," he said.

Commenting on the Jammu and Kashmir election results, Modi said they reflect the vibrancy of India's Constitution and democracy while crediting his government for the conduct of peaceful elections there.

Launching a fresh broadside against the Congress, Modi accused the party of helping evil forces that are trying to destroy India by obstructing the country's growth. "Many conspiracies are being hatched globally to weaken India's economy, democracy, and society. Congress and its cronies are part of this game," he alleged.

Modi also alleged that the Congress wants to weaken India by weakening the society and spreading anarchy in the country. "That is why they are provoking different sections, constantly trying to ignite a fire in the names of castes," he alleged, adding that the paty made many attempts to instigate farmers but people saw through its tricks and propaganda and rejected the party.

Modi also claimed that whenever the BJP forms a government in a state, people support it for a long time but the Congress rarely comes back to power as people put a 'no entry' board for the grand old party. "It was 13 years ago that the Congress came back to power in Assam and there are some states where the Congress has not returned to power for 60 years," he said.

Focusing a major part of his speech in targeting the Congress, Modi went on to allege that the oppositon party has been working against the interests of SC/STs and backward classes by trying to provoke them with misleading agenda.

"Today when the Dalits, backward classes, and tribals are reaching top positions, the Congress is nervous," he said.

SULAGNA SENGUPTA @ Kolkata

AROUND 50 senior doctors of RG Kar Medical College on Tuesday tendered their resignations in solidarity with the medics who have been on a hunger strike demanding action on the 10-point agenda. Their demands include effective security measures in hospitals, better working conditions, and systemic reforms in state-run hospitals.

The doctors said they took the step as "there has been no response from the appropriate authority to solve and to save our children from impending health disaster". They also claimed that medics from other institutions in Kolkata such as SSKM and NRS may follow suit.

Rape FIR lodged against Cong MLA Vinay Kulkarni

RAKSHITH GOWDA @ Bengaluru

A 34-year-old woman filed a complaint with Sanjaynagar police in the city on Tuesday accusing Dharwad Congress MLA Vinay Kulkarni of raping and harrassing her.

Based on her complaint, police filed an FIR naming Vinay Kulkarni as Accused 1 (A1) and his close aide Arjun as Accused 2 (A2).

According to the complaint, the woman met the MLA in 2022. The MLA got her phone number from a farmer and began calling her, sometimes even at night. After some months, he allegedly made a video call while being naked and forced her to go to his house in Hebbal. When she refused, a gang of rowdies threatened her with dire consequences if she did not go to the MLA's house, she alleged.

In April, the MLA called her to Belagavi, where he hugged her and allegedly tried to sexually abuse her. But he let her go when some people came to meet him.

On August 24, when she went to meet the then CM Basavaraj Bommai, the MLA forced her to go to his house. She took an autorickshaw to his house.

20,757 tonne of garbage processed at Koramangala unit

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) claimed that scientific disposal of waste from the "Second Stage Solid Waste Transfer and Automatic Waste Sorting Unit", constructed in Koramangala, is operating successfully. Since March, the unit that can process 160 tonnes of waste every day has collected 20,757.52 tonnes of waste till now.

Engineers from the Bengaluru Solid Waste Management Ltd (BSWML) said that several changes are being made in solid waste management under BBMP. Various schemes have been devised by the corporation and BSWML to enhance the beauty of the city and make Bengaluru a clean and beautiful city, they added.

The first of the "Secondary Solid Waste Transfer and Automated Waste Sorting Unit" was set up in Ejipura ward. That unit receives around 150-160 tonnes of solid waste daily from 3 wards of BTM Layout Division, three wards of Shantinagar division and K-100 Valley.

"This unit in Koramangala is already running successfully and the unit constructed at Binnypet in the Chamarajpet Assembly constituency is ready for inauguration. Steps are being taken to carry out work in Sarvajnanagar. Necessary steps are being taken to start four new units in other assembly constituencies in the city. Proposals for setting up three units have been sent for government approval, while one proposal is seeking the approval for construction," said an BWSML engineer. He added that there is a plan to set up one "secondary-level solid waste transfer and automatic waste sorting unit" in each of the 28 Assembly constituencies in the city.

Tilted building poses threat

Following complaints from residents that a building in Kasavanahalli in Mahadevapura belonging to Keshava Reddy posed a risk, Joint Commissioner K Dakshayini directed the owner to demolish the structure. She said the owner had constructed an extra floor, due to which it tilted. Engineers were employed to monitor the demolition by the owner.

Retailers protest against tobacco rules

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FOLLOWING a call given by the Karnataka State Retailers' Welfare Association, over 3,000 retail business owners and small-time traders protested at Freedom Park against the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike's (BBMP) rule for a separate licence for the sale of tobacco products by retailers.

Association president BN Murali Krishna said the new rule lacks logic. It will impact the lives of two lakh retailers. "The Palike says that annually Rs 500 had to be paid to get such a licence and BBMP will shortly issue the application online. The move will result in the greasing of palms of officials for the licence. Secondly, the shopkeepers who cannot ensure a separate place for smokers due to space constraints will be subjected to more harassment from the police," said Krishna.

He added that over 2,00,000 small shopkeepers under the aegis of the Karnataka State Retail Beedi-Cigarette Merchants Association, which represents the Karnataka Chapter of the Federation of Retailer Association of India (FRAI), have been protesting across the state against various municipal bodies bid to introduce 'Licence Raj'.

"Members of our association are already being harassed by the authorities daily. The authorities are taking advantage of the illiteracy and lack of awareness of the traders. Now as per the proposed Act, tobacco retailers have to get their licence renewed every year," he stressed.

Later, members of the association approached the BBMP special commissioner's office.

A TWO-day South India leadership meet, in which 300 farmer leaders from Karnataka, Telangana, Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu and Kerala participated, has called for a boycott of Israeli products to condemn the country's offensive in Gaza.

At the meet, organised by the Karnataka chapter of the Samyuktha Kisan Morcha (SKM), farmer leaders said Israel stands guilty of "widespread acts of genocide", including the massacre of defenceless women and children.

They also strongly opposed the Indian government's support for Israel. "We demand that the Indian government stop all arms supplies and cancel trade deals with Israel," the farmer leaders said in unison.

Seeking prosecution of Israeli leaders for war crimes at the International Court of Justice and the International Criminal Court, they said, "We call for a boycott of all Israeli products."

Achieved 98% success in implementing guarantees: Revanna

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

STATE president of the Guarantee Implementation Committee HM Revanna held a review meeting of the State government's five guarantees in 28 assembly constituencies in Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike area, and said the government has achieved 98 per cent success rate in implementing the five guarantees promised by the Congress party.

Free travel for women in government buses, free power up to 200 units for the poor, 10kg rice per BPL family and cash benefit in case of short supply of ration, Rs 2000 for the woman head of the family and Yuva Nidhi, a stipend for graduates till they get employment for a certain period, all have been implemented. "In a few cases, the benefits could not be given only due to a technical error," he said.

He added that all people will get the benefit of the guarantee schemes, which should be implemented more effectively in Bengaluru's 28 assembly constituencies. A meeting was held with all committee chairpersons, and they were told to ensure the guarantees reached without any error.

Responding to implementation of the caste census report, Revanna said that to formulate a programme in the state, the condition of people should be known. "This has been going on for a long time. The Supreme Court has also ordered a survey. This report was prepared by taking into consideration 55 questions. CM Siddaramaiah has done this with great effort. Rahul Gandhi said the report should be implemented. We have also mentioned this in our election manifesto," said Revanna, and added that it is an attempt to know the educational, social and economic condition of the people of the state.

BJP brought special quota

"We have not neglected any caste or community. BJP brought 10 per cent reservation for economically weaker sections. This has increased the overall reservation to 60 per cent. What is the benefit to the state and people? There is a discussion for bringing it before the cabinet and implementing it. The report will be placed before the public for discussion," stated Revanna.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

09TH October: I was reading one of those doom and gloom articles about the end of the world the other day. Apparently, the Sun will grow so big and hot that we'll all have to decamp to Mars, which is further away and cooler. That all depends on Mars having enough water, though. Mind you, it won't happen for about seven thousand million years. So, time enough to pack, then!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The week is almost half-way through and you still don't seem to have accomplished very much. Perhaps this is not a time for achievement in any orthodox sense. Why don't you try a change of tack? Perhaps you should forget about past delays and get on with your plans.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Fortunate stars continue, favouring mainly those of you with April and early May birthdays. Taureans with late May birthdays will have to wait a little longer for their perfect planetary alignments, but can still afford to rest on their laurels. Remember, though - partners have to take the lead.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Much has been said and written about your financial complications. All I can add now is a reminder that you are still fighting on several fronts, but that within a few weeks the situation will be substantially eased. First, Mercury, your planetary ruler, has to get out of its current scrape.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Various planets, each in their different ways, bring you some pretty bright financial ideas. However, you must move immediately towards putting your plans into effect if you are not to meet a rising tide of opposition. But, then, a little friction may be inevitable - perhaps even useful.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The long-term effect of your current stars is difficult to gauge. What we can say with some certainty is that the general drift this week is towards the clarification of certain personal issues that, until now, have remained irritatingly vague.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You may be extremely pleased to hear that there could be a happy ending to a rather bizarre story. You might decide that the only way forward now is to put the past behind you and pretend that nothing happened. But then that's not really the case, is it?

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
An extraordinary amount of planetary activity has been teaching you a firm lesson, namely that a house built on foundations of straw will not do. It is time to be more settled. In a sense, you also have to face up to the real world. And not before time!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The time is fast approaching when you will have to think about terminating one particular involvement. The weekend may be a better time for taking a final decision and breaking the news than now. But some of you may decide that next week would be even better!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You must get a move on, or miss the boat. Mercury will not spend long in highly favourable and friendly parts of your chart. You should therefore do what you can over the next two weeks to splash out, experimenting with different options, however unlikely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
A separation, or parting of the ways, may have left you feeling rather bruised. Yet whatever was done in the heat of the moment may still be undone, if you so wish. It's all a question of commitment. It's also a question of working out just why you feel as you do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You are renowned for your sheer inventive genius. Let's hope that teachers, employers, colleagues and relatives are now prepared to give you the space to play around with some of your more special ideas. You should take care that nobody misunderstands your real intentions, though.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You have an unfortunate habit of poking your nose into other people's affairs, even when it's not wanted. Endearing as this naive quality can be, let me warn you not to push your luck as the week draws to its close. After all, someone may try and bite it off!

FOOD-POISONING

Suspicious unnatural death case filed

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

The KP Agrahara police have registered a case of suspicious unnatural death in connection with the death of a five-year-old boy, who is suspected to have died of food poisoning after eating stale food at home. The boy's parents, who ate the same food, are under treatment at a private hospital. The incident occurred on Monday morning, after the three repeatedly vomited and developed diarrhea. They rushed to hospital, where doctors declared the boy, Dheeraj, brought death.

Following the boy's death and his parents' hospitalisation after consuming the suspected stale food, the police have registered a case of suspicious unnatural death, based on a complaint by Dheeraj's father, Balaraj.

The police have collected food samples from the house and the ingredients used by the family for cooking, which have been sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory.

HC: Placing undertrial in 'andheri cell' unknown

Accused in Renukaswamy case to be shifted to B'luru central prison

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court observed that the axe that needed to have fallen on actor Darshan for allegedly sitting with a rowdy, Wilson Garden Naga and others, sipping coffee and smoking a cigarette in the Central prison in Bengaluru, had been extended to another accused, Pradosh S Rao, in the Renukaswamy murder case, though he was away from the company. The court directed the prison authorities to shift him from Belagavi Central Prison's 'andheri cell' to Central Prison in Bengaluru.

"Placing an undertrial prisoner in such a cell is unknown to law, unless grave circumstances are ensured. Shifting of undertrial prisoners cannot be at the whim and fancy of the prosecution and such orders, when sought, magistrates ought to apply their mind. If shifting had to be done at all, it could be shifting of Darshan, as he was at the scene, in the company of others, sipping coffee and holding a cigarette. The petitioner, who is away in some cell, is penalised for Darshan's act," said Justice M Nagaprasanna.

It was alleged that Pradosh was housed in an 'andheri cell' -- a cell with darkness for 15 hours -- and was made to sit in front of the camera for eight hours, on the score that he was under observation. Therefore, Pradosh approached the high court, questioning the order dated August 27, 2024, passed by the 24th Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate in the city, to shift him from the central prison of Bengaluru to the Central Prison at Belagavi.

Quashing the order, Justice M Nagaprasanna observed that there was no independent reason to shift the petitioner, particularly to an andheri cell, as there was no allegation against him that he had indulged in certain acts. It has undoubtedly affected the right of the undertrial prisoner who is shifted, and should be re-shifted, the judge said, citing a judgment of the apex court.

The State Public Prosecutor defended the action of shifting the petitioner on the ground that the name of the cell is 'andheri', and it is rather surprising that instead of a number given to the cell, the name 'andheri' is given.

Making clear that the order would not benefit any other accused in the crime, the court said the impugned order is undoubtedly passed without giving any opportunity to the petitioner to file his objections, if any. On the ground that the photograph showing Darshan sipping coffee and holding a cigarette would demoralise witnesses and provide room for suspicion on differential treatment being given to Darshan, under-trial prisoners were sought to be transferred from the central prison at Bengaluru to a different prison.

Woman, male accomplice wanted for murdering, robbing senior citizens

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Ramanagara District Police have sought information from the public about a woman and her male accomplice, who are on a spree of killing and robbing senior citizens in the guise of prospective tenants. The Tavarekere police of Ramanagara district have issued a 'Wanted' notice for the two accused.

The duo approach those people who have put their house for rent, under the pretext of looking at it. They search for buildings with 'To-Let' signs, and if they find that the owners are aged, they plot a robbery. After robbing the owners, the accused escape after gagging and tying-up their victims and locking them inside the house. The two are also wanted by the Bengaluru Rural Police for the murder of an elderly woman.

The exact details of the accused are not available with the police at present. In the robbery case reported in Tavarekere police limits on August 6, however, the accused, while talking to an aged couple, had introduced themselves as Asha and Jeevan. They even claimed to be a couple. The accused then went on to rob the aged couple, identified as C Siddagangappa and his wife Siddalingamma at their farmhouse. The accused had even attacked the victims with chilli powder, before robbing them of their gold jewellery worth around Rs 2.25 lakh.

"The Madanayakanahalli police have also registered a murder case against the accused duo for robbing and killing an elderly woman. We suspect that the accused keep shifting base, and have not been arrested even once. It is not clear if they are a couple," an officer said.

Not using caste census for political gains: CM

Says decisions should be based on consensus, and that is why there is some delay

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday rubbished the allegation made by Opposition leaders that the caste census report is being used for political gains. The CM said that they have not suddenly decided to discuss the census report in the cabinet, but have been holding consultations since the party came to power in 2023. "We believe that decisions should be made by consensus, and that is why there was some delay in it," Siddaramaiah said.

He was responding to Leader of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka's allegations that the State Government suddenly took the decision on the caste census to divert attention from alleged scams.

The BJP and JDS leaders have accused Siddaramaiah of using the caste census report to divert attention from the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) sites allotment case against him.

The CM stated that although the survey was completed in 2018, the report could not be received during that period as the statistical verification work was not completed and there were no other reasons for it.

Unfounded doubts have arisen among some people due to false propaganda by the Opposition parties and some are confused due to misconceptions, he said. A decision to implement it will be taken after clearing doubts of all including the pontiffs through dialogue, he said. The CM asked the Opposition on what basis they are claiming that the survey was not done scientifically and there were mistakes in it.

Siddaramaiah said the BJP has not conducted the caste census in any of the states in which it is in power, while the Congress had included it in its manifesto for the Lok Sabha polls. A decision on caste census report implementation will be taken after discussing it in the cabinet on October 18, he reiterated.

Meanwhile, Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, who is also state Congress president, said they are all committed to the party's decision on caste census. "We have to go by what the Party says," Shivakumar told reporters in Sandur.

In Bengaluru, speaking to reporters, Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said that the Opposition BJP and JDS leaders are unable to digest the State Government's move to implement the caste census report. The report will give a clear idea about the population of Backward Classes, Minorities, and Dalits in the state and help to implement programmes for their welfare.

BJP NOT AGAINST CASTE CENSUS, SAYS ASHOKA

Leader of Opposition in the Assembly Ashoka said that the BJP is not against caste census and will support any action to help politically, socially, educationally, and economically weaker communities. The BJP leader said they are against using caste census as a dice in a political game.

"If they were really committed to the caste census, why didn't they accept and implement the Kantharaju report in 2018 itself?" he said.

Satish meets party leaders in Mysuru, speculation builds

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

The BJP may have kept up its campaign for Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's ouster in the MUDA case, but it is Congress minister Satish Jarkiholi's moves over the past few days, and his meetings with party leaders that have fanned doubts on Siddaramaiah's future as CM.

Jarkiholi, who is purportedly in Mysuru for the Dasara festival, met a few ministers, legislators and leaders, giving room for suspicion of a possible leadership change. Although Siddaramaiah has, time and again, clarified that he will not resign as he is innocent in the MUDA case, the Belagavi leader meeting Congress leaders and MLAs is being seen as preparing the ground for such an eventuality.

Though Jarkiholi has stated that he is an aspirant for the CM's post in 2028, his recent moves and statements have not gone down well with Congress leaders and Siddaramaiah's supporters. He gave further scope for speculation by stating that Siddaramaiah's tenure may last three years or five years, that there's no certainty, and the Congress high command knows it. This statement in Mysuru has shocked even Siddaramaiah's detractors, as KPCC president DK Shivakumar, who is the frontrunner for the CM's gaddi, has been repeatedly asserting that Siddaramaiah will complete five years in office.

Shivakumar has also warned ministers and leaders not to make statements on the leadership issue, as Siddaramaiah has the backing of the top brass.

Jarkiholi, who was in Siddaramaiah's camp from 2006, joined the Congress after ditching the JDS with HC Mahadevappa, K Venkatesh, CM Ibrahim and others, but his moves and statements confirm Opposition charges that Siddaramaiah faces a greater threat within the Congress.

On the other hand, frequent meetings between Satish, Mahadevappa and Parameshwara, and their statements have raised doubts among the upper castes that they want to scuttle any change by playing the Dalit card. For them, it is now or never, in case Siddaramaiah bows out.

When asked, Satish said that when politicians meet, they obviously discuss politics. He maintained that they were in Mysuru to enjoy the Dasara programme and there is nothing special in meeting Mahadevappa as they are neighbours. He said Siddaramaiah would be the CM and there was no discussion on a change of guard.

A few Congress loyalists feel the high command should intervene and end speculation, and fear that any further delay would only damage the government and party image ahead of panchayat and urban local body polls.

There is no need for CM to resign, says Dr Parameshwara

Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said there is no need for CM Siddaramaiah to resign. Responding to reporters' questions on his meeting with minister Satish Jarkiholi, the minister said; "Isn't it good when discussions happen? There is a programme called Chai Pe Charcha. Likewise, this is Coffee Pe Charcha. Drinking two cups of coffee while sitting together can make one CM, then there would have been many such discussions, and lots of coffee would have been consumed," the minister said. "Nothing happens just because we talk. All decisions will be made by the party high command. Such a situation hasn't arisen. When a situation arises, let's discuss it, raise our voices, demand, and do what is necessary. But, now the situation hasn't come. There is no need for the CM to resign," the Home Minister said responding to questions on speculations over a Dalit leader becoming the next CM. On the BJP leaders' claim that Siddaramaiah will resign after Dasara, Dr Parameshwara said there is no need for the CM to resign and they have made it clear many a time.

Bommai: Haryana verdict shows trajectory of national politics

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE BJP getting a majority in Haryana is a clear indication of the direction in which the country's politics is heading, former Chief Minister and Haveri MP Basavaraj Bommai has said.

BJP's clear majority in Haryana is owing to PM Narendra Modi's leadership and the strength of the party's local organisation, Bommai said and added that similar results would be seen in Maharashtra as well.

Speaking to reporters in Bengaluru, the former CM said the result in Haryana, the first election after the Lok Sabha polls, shows the trajectory of national politics. He said the people of Haryana have rejected Congress' caste-based politics. The Congress tried to portray the BJP as anti-constitutional, but the people supported the BJP, Bommai added.

On Jammu and Kashmir election results, the MP said that the BJP gained support outside the Valley too. "Politics is still ongoing, and this is not the end. If the Congress accepts their defeat in Haryana with dignity, we will respect that. However, if they make excuses, we will respond accordingly," he added.

State JDS president and Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy said once again PM Modi has proven himself as a strong leader. "Heartiest congratulations to our alliance partner @BJP4India for an exemplary performance in the Haryana polls and a promising showing in Jammu & Kashmir elections under the visionary leadership of Honourable PM Shri @narendramodi avaru. Once again, Shri PM Modi has proven himself as a strong and trusted leader. We stand united in our belief in his leadership and look forward to continued success for the nation," Kumaraswamy said.

State BJP chief BY Vijayendra said that the people of Haryana rejected the Congress guarantees and supported PM Modi's development guarantees. He said results in Haryana will have a positive impact on the Maharashtra elections.

"In Karnataka, Congress came to power by talking about Backward Classes, Minorities, and Dalits, but the government was involved in scams in the ST development corporation and MUDA. The BJP has spoken about those issues during the campaigning in Haryana," he said.

If Congress accepts their defeat in Haryana with dignity, we will respect that. However, if they make excuses, we will respond accordingly

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, who is also the KPCC president, said that the party would accept the mandate given by the people of Haryana and Jammu and Kashmir.

Speaking to reporters in Hubballi, he said the Congress high command will take stock of what went wrong in Haryana. On Jammu and Kashmir, he said that the I.N.D.I.A bloc would form the government in the Union Territory. He added that the voters of Jammu and Kashmir have upheld democracy by participating in the elections that were held after a long gap.

He, however, refused to admit that the poll results were an indication of the outcome of the upcoming elections.

On several exit polls predicting a thumping win for the Congress in Haryana, the DyCM said, "I never believed in exit polls and will not believe in the future either."

Meanwhile. Shivakumar dismissed reports on intense competition within the party for the chief minister's post and said, Siddaramaiah was their chief minister, and they were all working under him and will continue to do so in the future too. He also said that Congress candidates for the bypolls to Shiggaon, Channapatna, and Sandur would be announced soon.

Cong leadership never discussed replacing Siddu, says Byre Gowda

BELAGAVI: Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda has said that the Congress leadership has so far never discussed the issue of change of guard in Karnataka state and that Siddaramaiah would continue to be the Chief Minister. The minister said that if some party leaders are lobbying for the top post, it is their personal decision. Speaking to a section of media at Kittur on Tuesday, he said that the entire Congress leadership, including the party high command, was backing Siddaramaiah and no discussions were held at any level about replacing him. Reacting to a question that several top party leaders from the state were meeting AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge amid reports of a possible change of guard in the state, Gowda said some leaders could be trying for the top seat and this issue was left to them. He said there was nothing wrong if some leaders were doing so. He said the top part leaders like Kharge, Rahul Gandhi and KC Venugopal had clearly stated that they were all standing by Siddaramaiah. The issue of change of CM was merely an imagination and nothing else, the minister added. When asked whether he was in the race for the top post, Gowda said he had been elected as MLA for six times and worked as minister in the cabinet thrice. He had already got enough with the blessings of his parents, Gowda said. ENS

Janardhana Reddy's car seized for breaching CM's security

AMIT S UPADHYE @ Hubballi

KOPPAL traffic police on Tuesday seized a car owned by MLA Janardhana Reddy for allegedly breaching security during Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's visit to Gangavathi on Saturday.

Two more cars of Reddy's supporters were also seized. A police team went to Bengaluru and brought back the three cars of Reddy and his supporters.

Cases have been filed against the drivers of the cars. The cars have been kept on the premises of the police station at Gangavathi in Koppal district.

Police said they had informed Reddy about the seizure of the three cars for allegedly breaching CM's security. As Reddy was in Bengaluru, the police went there and seized the cars.

People cheered Reddy when the convoy of Siddaramaiah was stopped for a while to allow the three cars to pass by.

Koppal district in-charge minister Shivaraj Tangadagi had criticised Reddy for his act. Reddy, however, defended his action stating that it was not intentional.

"I waited for half hour in the traffic. I can prove it by showing the CCTV footage. I was returning from Sandur after a poll campaign. I got a call from home asking me to attend some rituals being held there. I did not want to request the police as it could have created some chaos. But as soon as we entered the other lane, the CM's convoy arrived," Reddy elaborated.

Kappatagudda: No nod for mining now, greens rejoice

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR
@ Gadag

ENVIRONMENTALISTS have heaved a sigh of relief after the proposal for mining at Kappatagudda in Gadag district has been deferred.

The Karnataka State Wildlife Board chaired by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah that met on October 7 has decided to defer 28 proposals submitted seeking permission for mining within 10 km of the Kappatagudda Wildlife Sanctuary in Gadag district.

Forest Minister Eshwar Khandre said that the matter was discussed in detail and a notice was issued to the unauthorised miners operating within 1 km of Kappattagudda directing them to stop mining. Many environmentalists had expressed apprehension when the board had called for a meeting to discuss the proposals. There is also a demand from several quarters to set up an ayurveda university in Kappatagudda, as the area is rich in flora with a good number of medicinal plants.

Kappatagudda is spread across Gadag, Mundargi, and Shirahatti taluks, and the hillock starts from Gadag Binkadakatti village and extends all the way up to Mundargi's Singatalur village. Former DCF Yashpal Ksheersagar has collected information on 500 important medicinal herbs available on the hillock with their scientific names, details, and uses.

Environmentalist Chandrkant Chavan said, "It is a hillock that provides fresh air to the residents of Gadag, Mundargi, and Shirahatti. If the government allows mining, it will be disastrous. Peacock population has come down after a few set up their industries at the base of the hillock. It is our duty to protect the flora and fauna. The government should not give permission for mining."

Kerala govt instructs chief secy to ignore Guv's summons

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@T'Puram

AFTER a lull, the government-governor conflict is back in the news. A day after Governor Arif Mohammed Khan summoned the chief secretary and the state police chief over the chief minister's controversial interview, the government instructed its top officials to ignore the fiat.

Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan shot off a letter to the governor, bluntly telling him that he didn't have the Constitutional right to issue such direct orders to the two top civil servants. The Raj Bhavan is Constitutionally obliged to route any such communication through the CM, Pinarayi said in the letter.

The governor was quick to respond to the letter, saying he opted for a briefing from the chief secretary and the state police chief as the CM did not respond to his letter seeking clarification on Pinarayi's remark on the "alleged anti-national and anti-state activities going on in the past three years". The briefing was intended to furnish a report to the President, Khan said.

The governor summoned Chief Secretary Sarada Muraleedharan and State Police Chief Shaik Darvesh Saheb over the CM's controversial interview that appeared in an English daily. In the interview, Pinarayi is quoted as saying that money from hawala and gold smuggling was used for anti-state and anti-national activities. Pinarayi has since disowned the statement, and the daily too admitted that it had wrongly quoted him.

The CM is yet to respond to the governor's letter. "I appreciate that you acknowledged in the letter that as per Article 167 of the Constitution of India, the chief minister is duty bound to provide information required by the governor. However, it is surprising to note that you chose to avoid my request to have a briefing from the chief secretary, that too, in the absence of a response from you to my letters," Khan said.

In his letter, Pinarayi said the constitutional course of action would be to route any such directions to the officials through the CM.

Article 167 clearly states the duties of the chief minister to provide information to the governor on certain matters and what can be required by the governor, he said. "Rule 34(2) of the Rules of Business of the Government of Kerala, promulgated by the hon'ble governor under Article 166(3), contains details of matters to be communicated to the governor. Beyond these, there is no other power in the Constitution, which vests any further power with the office of the governor, with regard to the relationship with the Council of Ministers," he said. The CM requested the governor to reconsider his request.

Following Ali's disappearance, a missing person case was registered at Kavoor police station and extortion and abetmet to suicide cases were registered against six people, Rahmat (38), Abdul Sattar, Shafi, a sand merchant, Mustafa, Shoaib and Siraj, driver of Abdul Sattar.

YOUR CUP OF COFFEE TO GET DEARER FROM OCT 15

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

YOU may have to pay more for a cup of coffee from October 15. For, the prices of coffee powder are set to go up.

The Indian Coffee Trade Association (ICTA) on Tuesday announced that the price of coffee powder per kg will go up by Rs 100. It will become inevitable for hotels and cafes to hike the prices of coffee, according to sources.

"We have no other option, but to increase the prices of coffee powder. Prices of Arabica and Robusta coffee have increased. Globally, the demand for coffee has been increasing. However, its production has come down due to various factors. Indian coffee is most sought after and the demand has to be met. Compared to last year, the bean prices increased from Rs 200- 280 a kg this year," Perikal M Sundar, ICTA chairman, told TNIE.

According to ICTA, India produces over 3.5 lakh tonnes of coffee, of which 70% is Robusta. Of the total production, around one lakh tonne is domestically consumed. Coffee prices have been increasing steadily since January. Robusta coffee prices have increased from Rs 200 a kg to Rs 420 a kg and Arabica from Rs 290 a kg to Rs 465 a kg. Climate change has led to a 20% decline in coffee production.

"Prices of coffee in the domestic market will go up when they increase in the international market. There has been a 40-50% increase in green coffee production in the past three years. A correction in coffee prices will happen when production increases. However, a watch on chicory blending should be kept as there are chances of adulteration in view of the increasing demand, according to an official from the Coffee Board.

According to the Food Safety and Standards Authority of India, blending of chicory with coffee is permitted up to 49%. However, traders and roasters blend not more than 20% as it reduces the flavour and texture of coffee. In south India, it is less than 20%. But now with the coffee prices going up, the blending of chicory will also increase. There should be a strict vigil on it, according to officials and traders.

There are 300 registered coffee roasters in Karnataka and around 500 in south India. Also, there are 3,000 registered coffee trading units. The ICTA has warned unregistered units against marketing substandard coffee.

WORLD BANK TO FUND ₹4-CR PROJECT FOR RESCUE OF TURTLES IN KARWAR

SUBHASH CHANDRA N S
@ Karwar

THE Karwar division, which is the first in the state to start coastal and marine ecosystem cells to ensure protection of marine species, has now proposed to start a rescue and rehabilitation centre for olive ridley sea turtles and also tap tourism potential through this.

The centre will be coming up near the tree park at Kodi Bhag near Karwar. It will be constructed at a cost of Rs 4 crore under K Shore scheme and will be funded by the World Bank. A DPR is being prepared and the work is likely to begin by December 2024.

An interpretation centre pertaining to marine turtles will also come up here. The centre, to be constructed away from the CRZ ambit, will also have a study centre. A veterinarian will also be stationed here who will treat the turtles that come injured due to attack by whales and other predators.

Olive ridley sea turtles

So far, the Forest Department would rescue the olive ridley sea turtles caught in the nets of fishermen or that were washed away due to attack by predators. They would protect the turtle's eggs taken from the nests by means of ex-situ or in-situ conservation. But for the first time the department is planning to set up a rescue and rehabilitation centre near Karwar, where the rescued marine creatures would be brought and cared for until they are released into the sea.

This, according to the staff in Karwar, is also aimed at drawing more tourists by showing marine life like turtles and dolphins to the visitors, which are sighted frequently.

"This primarily focuses on olive ridley turtle conservation -- turtles protected under Schedule 1 of Wildlife Protection Act. There were days when the eggs of these turtles were considered to be nutritious and were in high demand. It was not only hunted by human beings, but even by predators like dogs and jackals. The centre here will have an information centre where details about the turtles and its rarity, the threat associated with them and so on will be displayed. We are planning to draw more tourists who can come and educate themselves and take interest in the conservation of the turtles," DCF, Karwar C Ravishankar told TNIE.

The centre, besides protecting, rescuing and conserving the turtles, will share information about other species like dolphins, sharks and porpoises. Three types of sea turtles — olive ridley turtles, green turtles and hawksbill turtles — have been sighted frequently in and around Karwar. There are several nesting sites of olive ridley turtles in the district. However, no nesting places of the other two turtles have been found so far.

Space debris-free compliance: PSLV-C37 falls in N Atlantic on Oct 6

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) on Tuesday reported the successful re-entry of the The Polar Satellite Launch Vehicle-C37 (PSLV-C37's) upper stage into the earth's atmosphere on October 6, in compliance with the global space debris-free efforts and to achieve the objective of having debris-free space missions by 2030.

The PSLV-C37 was launched on February 15, 2017. ISRO research team in a release said the re-entry in eight years of its launch is fully compliant with international debris mitigation guidelines, particularly the Inter-Agency Space Debris Coordination Committee guidelines, that recommended the post-emission orbital life of a defunct object in the low-earth orbit to be 25 years.

Special initiatives are being taken to ensure that the residual orbital lifetime of the PSLV upper stages is reduced to five years or even lesser by de-orbiting them to lower orbital altitudes using re-start engines in the PSLV-C38, PSLV-C40, PSLV-C43, PSLV- C56 and PSLV-C58 missions in the future.

ISRO said that as a part of its commitment to preserve long-term sustainability in outer space, the country's premier space agency is committed to taking proactive measures to meet the objectives of a debris-free space mission by 2030.

The PSLV-C37 was launched in 2017 with Cartosat-2D as the main payload and 103 other satellites as co-passengers. The team had then created history by launching 104 satellites in a single launch, which included eight Lemur-2 satellites, 88 Flock 3p satellites, INS-1A and 1B, Al- Farabi, BGUSAT, Nayif-1, PEASS and DIDO-2.

After ejection of the payloads, the upper stage (PS4) was left in an orbit of around 470x494 km.

The ISRO scientists were regularly tracking it and had found that its orbital altitude had started to slowly decay (the loss of orbit), due to atmospheric and gravitational drag effects. The researchers from September 2024, started to monitor the orbital decay using the ISRO System for Safe and Sustainable Space Operations Management (IS4OM) as a part of their activities and predicted that it would re-enter the earth's orbit in the first week of October 2024, and that the orbital decay was to the extent of 134x148 km.

According to US Space Command predictions, published in Space Track, the re- entry was estimated to take place on October 6 at 3.49pm, while the IS4OM prediction showed the re- entry to occur at 3.48 pm and 25 seconds on October 6, while the predicted impact point was in the North Atlantic Ocean.

MLA accused woman of leaking audio

LATER, the Congress MLA took her to a house on IVC Road near Devanahalli airport, where he allegedly raped her.

They again met in Haveri in September 2022, where he took her phone and gave it to one of his party members during a function to take photos and videos.

After she received her phone, she learnt that a conversation between her and the MLA had gone viral. The MLA suspected that she had leaked it.

She called Arjun and told him that she did not leak the audio. However, Arjun took her to an isolated place where the MLA assaulted her, accusing her of leaking the audio.

On October 2, they took her to a place near Dharmasthala, where the MLA allegedly raped her. They visited the temple there the next day.

While at Dharmasthala, the MLA threatened her not to disclose their relationship as he was involved in a murder case.

He then instructed Arjun to take her back to Bengaluru, according to the complaint.

The police have registered a case under Sections 506, 504, 201, 366, 376, 323, 354 of Indian Penal Code and the IT Act. Further investigations are on.

Public figures should be held accountable: Nagarjuna to court

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hyderabad

ACTOR Akkineni Nagarjuna on Tuesday appeared before the Nampally Court on Tuesday in connection with a defamation case he has filed against Minister Konda Surekha.

The actor accuses the minister of making derogatory remarks on the divorce of his son Naga Chaitanya, from actress Samantha Ruth Prabhu. He claims that these comments caused severe harm to his family's reputation.

Nagarjuna stated in court that the minister's remarks, which were broadcast on television channels and published in print media, were false, offensive and politically motivated and inflicted immense mental anguish on his family.

He argued that such verbal attacks, especially by public figures, should be held accountable for the damage they cause to personal reputations.

Nagarjuna stressed that his family has worked hard to build a good name, both through their contributions to the Indian film industry and their involvement in social service initiatives. The family, which includes several acclaimed actors, has been honoured with national awards and enjoys the admiration of fans across the country, he said.

In his statement, Nagarjuna demanded that criminal action be taken against Surekha for her defamatory comments. The court recorded Nagarjuna's statement and adjourned the hearing to a later date.

The actor was accompanied by his wife Amala Akkineni, Naga Chaitanya and actress Supriya Yarlagadda during the court appearance.

TURNING DEAF EAR TO CONSUMERS IS NOT THE WAY TO GO

SOCIAL media platforms have been agog with a battle between a stand-up comedian and the founder of India's leading electric two-wheeler maker. It all started with a picture of rows of e-scooters gathering dust outside an Ola Electric showroom, with the stand-up comic urging Ola's founder and CEO Bhavesh Aggarwal to attend to consumer complaints. Scores of disgruntled consumers joined the melee, complaining about the company's service failures. Some posted videos of a showroom set on fire by a frustrated Ola EV owner. Unfortunately, instead of heeding the criticism, Aggarwal chose to mock what he called "paid-for" tweets. This hit the raw nerve afresh—by the end of Monday, Ola Electric shares had dropped 8 percent from the previous close.

The government took action, too. The Union consumer affairs secretary said on Tuesday that the Central Consumer Protection Authority had sent a notice to Ola after the government had received more than 10,000 complaints between September 2023 and August 2024 over delayed and unsatisfactory services, and inaccurate invoices. There are lessons for all consumer-facing companies in this saga. First, Aggarwal should not have personally joined the issue. Two, even if he had to, he should have tackled the complaints with grace and humility. At 39, Aggarwal is one of the world's youngest dollar billionaires. As a self-made 'digi-preneur', he pioneered the app-based taxi-hailing company Ola Cabs and followed up with Ola Electric's ₹6,146-crore initial public offering in August, one of the largest in recent history. Aggarwal's wealth doubled to $2.6 billion overnight.

The entrepreneur can claim good pedigree in innovation and business acumen. But it's unfortunate that he is not at the listening post. For one, it has been a long-standing complaint that the flagship Ola S1 Pro uses a front fork arm from a Dutch model that often crumbles on India's bumpy roads. The e-scooters have also been plagued by software glitches and battery failures. On the business front, Ola's losses have mounted from ₹199 crore 2020-21 to ₹1,578 crore in 2023-24. For a mass utility product relied upon by tens of thousands of consumers—the company has a 27 percent share of the e-scooter market—the chief executive cannot be complacent. Consumers complain in a variety of ways—one can ignore these only at one's own peril.

TRACK INDUSTRY PLANS, PRIORITISE EMPLOYMENT

ODISHA CM Mohan Charan Majhi has set the ball rolling for his government's first investment summit to be held next January. He met diplomats of 34 countries in Delhi last week and invited them to the signature meet, now named Utkarsh Odisha: Make-in-Odisha Conclave. The CM assured them of an investor-friendly ecosystem, robust infrastructure, ease of doing business and a skilled workforce in tune with demands of modern industries. Odisha has traditionally attracted mineral-based industries due to its rich resources, but Majhi is keen to explore newer vistas in renewable energy, electronics, textiles, food processing, chemicals and IT. The BJP government claims to have received in its first 100 days promises to invest over ₹45,000 crore. Majhi doubled his government's five-year investment target to ₹5 lakh crore. But for it to fructify, his administration will require a serious course correction.

For a state that started industrialising decades ago, Odisha has clearly flattered to deceive. When the previous BJD regime started the push in 2005, the government notched up over 90 memorandums of understanding in no time. Much of it ended in a whimper as the process got bogged down by conflicts over land acquisition and red tape, prompting some global companies to opt out. The Make-In-Odisha summit started in 2016 and went on to be more about pomp that banked on big numbers to create an impact. In its 2018 edition, the summit attracted 202 investment intents worth ₹4.23 lakh crore, followed by ₹10.48 lakh crore in 2022. As per government records, only 23 of these proposals translated to memorandums for industries. Entailing an investment of ₹2.45 lakh crore, these projects have the potential to employ 65,000 people.

The previous dispensation's mistake was depending too much on big, extractive industries while ignoring smaller enterprises. The BJP's poll manifesto promised creation of 3.5 lakh jobs by 2029, for which Majhi must focus on high-impact projects, not just high-value ones. Employment and sustainability must be his priority, following the triple bottomline of the planet, people and profit. For that, it has to assess the potential of nimble-footed, sunrise industries in the state. His ₹5-lakh-crore investment goal will require strong commitment from his bureaucracy. Majhi must ensure that the investment intents are transparently tracked all the way to fructification. That will require responsive governance from the start.

QUICK TAKE

POLITICS OF PAROLE

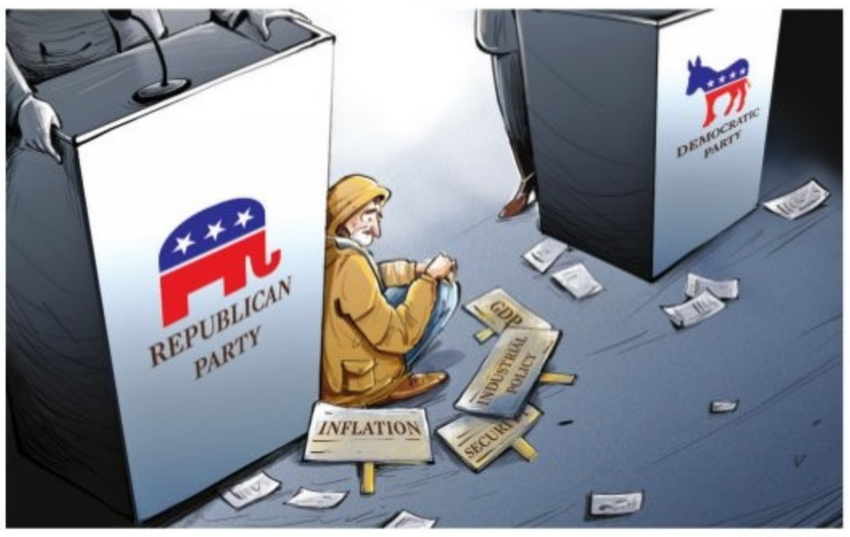
GURMEET Ram Rahim, the self-styled guru serving a 20-year jail term for the murder of a journalist and rape of two of his devotees, was recently allowed out on parole for the 15th time. Since 2020, the Dera Sachcha Sauda chief has been out on temporary release for more than 250 days. This time, his release came before the Haryana polls; earlier he had been released before state elections in Punjab, Himachal and the parliamentary polls. The judiciary considered the exceptional lenience shown to the convicted rapist-murderer, but left it to the executive to decide without arbitrariness. The least one can ask for is similar treatment of other convicts in Haryana's jails.

Though the US presidential candidates promise diverse economic policy choices to voters, they have little room to manoeuvre. Ergo, politics turns into a contest like American Idol

THE MORE THEY BICKER, THE MORE THEY STAY SAME

SATYAJIT DAS

Former banker and author



MANDAR PARDIKAR

MODERN US politics follows Roman satirist Juvenal's prescription of "panis et circenses"—bread and circuses. After the soap opera surrounding President Joe Biden's candidacy—John Kenneth Galbraith held that anyone who says he won't resign four times will do so—the contest has been re-energised, but voters have few meaningful choices.

First, the candidates' policies are similar. Neither candidate will address the budget deficit. The Congressional Budget Office projects that the 2024 shortfall will be $2 trillion, growing to $2.8 trillion by 2034—6-7 percent of the US GDP. The ability to control outgoings is limited.

Three-quarters of the total spending is mandatory—with social security, major health programmes and interest nearing $900 billion, around 3 percent of the GDP and nearly 18 percent of government revenues. With the untouchable defence constituting over 40 percent of the rest, only 15 percent of spending is discretionary. Politicians, irrespective of ideology, are reluctant to raise taxes to levels required for sound public finances.

Debt will rise from the current 99 percent of GDP to 122 percent by 2034. Like Ronald Reagan, modern leaders think government debt is big enough to take care of itself.

Inflation outcomes depend on energy and food prices as well as geopolitical and climatic events. The theoretically-independent Federal Reserve sets interest rates.

Democrats are cautious about the effects of globalised supply chains on employment. Republicans have abandoned their free trade roots. They embrace victimhood—America is taken advantage of by the world—and their new blue-collar constituencies. Trade barriers implemented by Donald Trump and maintained by his successor are like to increase under either candidate.

Both candidates espouse industrial policy, which is really rebadged protectionism. Sanctions, tariffs, trade restrictions, incentives for domestic procurement and subsidies are designed to re-, near- or friend-shore industrial production. It is unclear whether 'Make in America' is even possible, or how reduced access to and increased prices of products will restore greatness and prosperity. Restrictions on cheaper electric vehicle imports and solar panels from China are inconsistent with the planned shift away from fossil fuels.

The need to keep the lights on and feed energy-intensive lifestyles will mean, irrespective of campaign promises, both candidates must rely on fossil fuels.

Business regulation may not be eased. Trump initiated the probe into Google that has led to it being branded a monopolist.

America's immigration policy is to drain foreign talent educated in and at the cost of their home countries to supply skills. It pays lip service to being tough on illegal immigration, which provides essential cheap labour to various industries. The flow of refugees at the US's southern border results from deep-seated security and development problems in Latin America and further afield, often related to US adventurism. Neither candidate has a workable solution.

The candidates' position on defence and national security are similar. They are based around American exceptionalism and a unipolar worldview that allows the US to venture forth to slay foreign monsters when it chooses. After a few top-secret security briefings, all US presidents, irrespective of ideology, succumb to the demands of the military-industrial complex.

For both candidates, China remains the primary threat. Any retreat from an adversarial approach seems unlikely. Ultimately, both sides are committed to preserving the US empire. International cooperation to strengthen global institutions, including reworking of international monetary arrangements to reduce the role of the dollar, will be resisted.

Second, even where there are policy initiatives, it is questionable whether they will be implemented. The elected president may not have a majority in the House of Representatives or the Senate. Given the lack of bipartisanship, legislation will be difficult to pass. Even if the same party controls the White House and Congress, there is no guarantee that new measures will be passed due to procedural subterfuge by politicians skilled in the dark arts.

On budgetary matters, the US Congress has completed appropriations before the start of the fiscal year only four times in the past 40 years. The last time Congress passed all budget bills on time was nearly three decades ago in 1996. There is the ongoing problem of raising the debt ceiling. Recent presidents have sought to govern more through executive orders that are vulnerable to legal challenge, which limits the scope for policy initiatives.

An activist Supreme Court keen to expand its authority limits the scope for a new administration. Ideologically rigid positions and an arcane emphasis on textualism based around interpretations of the founding fathers' intentions cannot deal with issues that did not exist centuries ago.

The president's ability to appoint judges and key officials to bodies such as the Federal Reserve is limited by tenure and the timing of vacancies. Congressional approval of appointees, which increasingly resembles a mediaeval inquisition, is a lottery.

Unlike in a command economy, market-driven systems are built around decentralised decisions by businesses and households. Government power is naturally limited. Many crucial choices, such as those on energy and climate, are now increasingly driven by corporations and individuals with their own agendas.

Third, as UK PM Harold MacMillan held, politics is about "events". Presidential power is constrained by international responses to US actions and geopolitical events. Most administrations find themselves reacting to events like those in Ukraine and West Asia, or emergencies like the pandemic.

Democracy, as the cliché states, is messy. But the lack of differentiation between contestants and policies results in celebrity 'American Idol' politics and divisive culture wars focused on difficult issues of gender, identity, religion and personal freedoms. Campaign pitches degenerate into "I may have problems, but the other guy is far worse". Many voters would agree with Henry Kissinger's observation: "It's a pity that both of them can't lose."

It feeds growing disillusionment with the political process. Low US voter turnouts—just over half the eligible population votes; 2020's 66 percent participation was an outlier—make a mockery of universal suffrage and democratic engagement.

The problems are not unique to the US. Galbraith was right: "Politics is not the art of the possible. It consists in choosing between the disastrous and the unpalatable."

WHY ONOE IS NOT JUST ABOUT BETTER LOGISTICS

TULLA VEERENDER GOUD

Spokesperson, Telangana, BJP

THE Union cabinet has recently taken a historic step by approving the one nation, one election plan, proposing a significant shift in how polls are conducted across India. The initiative aims to synchronise elections at the Lok Sabha and assembly levels in its first phase, with plans to extend the model to urban body and panchayat polls in the second.

By adopting this approach, India stands poised to redefine its electoral landscape, fostering greater efficiency and coherence in governance. The growing consensus among politicians, academicians and administrators highlights not just the logistical benefits but also the substantial economic and administrative advantages this reform promises for our nation.

The high-level committee chaired by former President Ram Nath Kovind has revealed that a strong majority of parties—32 out of 47—are in favour of the ONOE initiative. This reform has been long overdue and promises to revolutionise how we conduct elections—often called a festival of democracy in India.

India held simultaneous elections from independence until 1962, a practice that streamlined the electoral process and minimised disruptions to governance. However, political complexities at the state level led to a divergence from this model. The idea of synchronising elections isn't new; it was first proposed in 1962 when the Election Commission of India (ECI) emphasised "it is obviously desirable that this duplication of efforts, if possible, be avoided". The conversation gained momentum in 1983, when the ECI reiterated its advocacy for this approach in its annual report, recognising its potential to enhance efficiency.

Fast forward to 2015, the standing committee on personnel, public grievance, law and justice also championed this reform, highlighting several compelling reasons: the significant costs incurred from conducting separate elections, the policy paralysis often triggered by the Model Code of Conduct, the adverse impact on essential services during poll periods, and the strain on administrative resources that could be better utilised elsewhere.

Given this historical context, it is intriguing to reflect on the stance of the Congress, which held power from 1951 to 1962 without any qualms about simultaneous elections. Why, then, does the party now resist a return to this effective and streamlined electoral model? This question invites us to consider the broader implications of electoral reform and its potential to enhance governance, efficiency and ultimately, the democratic process in India.

Critics of the ONOE initiative often argue that it may lead to voters casting similar votes for both Lok Sabha and assembly elections, thereby diminishing the distinctiveness of regional issues. However, this argument reeks of the fallacy of viewing an Indian voter as gullible and uninformed.

PTI

> Critics of the one nation, one election initiative often argue it may lead to voters preferring the same party in the state and at the Centre, thereby diminishing the distinctiveness of regional issues. This assumes the Indian voter is gullible and uninformed

The elections for the Lok Sabha and state assemblies focus on different sets of issues—national elections revolve around governance, security, and economic policies, while state elections address local concerns such as education, health and infrastructure. The electorate is increasingly aware of these distinctions, and voter preferences are influenced by the specific challenges they face in their states.

By allowing citizens to consider both national and local issues concurrently, the ONOE can enhance voter engagement, potentially leading to higher turnout rates. Historical evidence from countries like Australia and Canada—where simultaneous elections have been successfully implemented—demonstrates that voters can make nuanced choices without sacrificing local concerns. For example, in Australia, voters distinguish between federal and state candidates based on their specific agendas, thereby enriching the process.

Moreover, the argument that local issues will take a back seat under ONOE is flawed. Evidence from the 2019 elections in India shows that the vote share of the BJP in simultaneous assembly elections was lower compared to the general elections, indicating that voters do prioritise local governance. This pattern suggests voters are capable of discerning between local and national issues, reinforcing the notion that simultaneous elections do not diminish the importance of regional concerns.

Another criticism revolves around federalism. However, we must remember that India was a federal structure even during the early years of independence, when elections were held simultaneously. The historical context illustrates that a dual focus on national and local governance can coexist harmoniously and an Indian voter is capable of making the necessary distinctions

The economic argument is also compelling. The cost of conducting the 2009 Lok Sabha elections was approximately ₹1,115 crore, which tripled to around ₹3,870 crore by 2014. This exponential increase highlights the financial burden of frequent elections. Furthermore, we currently lack a separate cadre of staff dedicated to elections; administrative personnel often juggle multiple responsibilities. While establishing a dedicated electoral cadre is a long-term goal, implementing ONOE can enhance administrative efficiency and optimise human resource investment.

ONOE is not just a logistical reform. It represents a crucial step in the maturation of India's democracy. The reform instils its faith in the political acumen of the Indian voter and affirms that the potential benefits far outweigh the concerns raised by critics. By fostering cooperation, efficiency and a strengthened democratic fabric, this initiative can usher in a new era for governance. With careful planning and broader consultation, the ONOE can help transform India's festival of democracy

BJP's win

The spectacular win of the BJP in Haryana and its not-so-bad performance in J&K are nothing but a recognition given by the people to the unique personality of Narendra Modi. An analysis of the Congress's performance in Haryana in the proper perspective shows that it has a long way to go.

PM to attend ASEAN-India, East Asia summits in Laos

Modi to visit Vientiane on October 10, hold bilateral meetings

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi will be on a two-day visit to Lao People's Democratic Republic (PDR) on October 10 and 11 during which he will attend the 21st ASEAN-India Summit and the 19th East Asia Summit, the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) said on Tuesday.

Lao PDR, also called Laos, is the present chair of the ASEAN (Association of Southeast Asian Nations). Modi will visit Vientiane on the invitation of Lao PDR Prime Minister Sonexay Siphandone.

"India is marking a decade of the Act East Policy this year. Relations with ASEAN are a central pillar of the Act East Policy and our Indo-Pacific vision. The ASEAN-India Summit will review progress of India-ASEAN relations through our Comprehensive Strategic Partnership and chart the future direction of cooperation," said the MEA.

"The East Asia Summit, a premier leaders-led forum that contributes to building an environment of strategic trust in the region, provides an opportunity for leaders of EAS Participating Countries, including India, to exchange views on issues of regional importance," the ministry said, adding PM Modi is also expected to hold bilateral meetings on the margins of the two summits.

"India has civilisational and cultural linkages with East Asian nations which have grown into acquiring all the elements of a contemporary relationship. These countries are significant in India's Act East Policy and our vision of the Indo-Pacific," the MEA said.

The ASEAN leaders are meeting at a time when Myanmar's civil war and mounting tensions in the South China Sea test the grouping's central role in the region.

During the decade of India's Act East Policy, the engagements have grown from stronger people-to-people connect to the robust cooperation in trade and investment, defence and security, connectivity including fin-tech, heritage conservation and capacity building.

2024 marks important anniversaries of establishment of India's diplomatic ties with several countries in the region — 75th with Indonesia and the Philippines, 60th with Singapore and 40th with Brunei.

10 states of SE Asia

The Association of Southeast Asian Nations is a political and economic union of 10 states in Southeast Asia. Together, its member states represent a population of more than 600 million people. These countries are: Indonesia, Vietnam, Laos, Brunei, Thailand, Myanmar, the Philippines, Cambodia, Singapore and Malaysia.

Won't accept Haryana result, says Cong

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

A "shocked" and "surprised" Congress on Tuesday said that it will not accept the Haryana assembly results as it raises "serious questions" about the integrity of the instruments of the democratic system.

The Congress pointed out "serious discrepancies" with the counting process and the functioning of the EVMs (electronic voting machines) in around 14 constituencies and said it would approach the Election Commission on the same.

Addressing a press conference in the capital, All India Congress Committee's general secretary Jairam Ramesh said Haryana result is a victory of manipulations, and subverting the will of people. He also alleged that it is a defeat of the transparent and democratic processes.

"The results in Haryana are totally unexpected, completely surprising and counter-intuitive. It goes against ground reality. It goes against what the people of Haryana had made their minds up for, which was for change and transformation. I think under these circumstances, it is not possible for us to accept the results that have been announced today," said Ramesh. "Victory has been snatched from us in Haryana...

Victory has been snatched from us in Haryana... the results are against the sentiment of the people, which was for change. The Congress has been made to lose in Haryana and the chapter is not closed the results are against the sentiment of the people, which was for change. The Congress has been made to lose in Haryana and the chapter is not closed," the Congress leader said.
Jairam Ramesh, AICC General Secretary

The party has received serious complaints on the process of counting, and the malfunctioning of EVMs in at least three districts, he said.

"We have spoken to our senior colleagues in Haryana and serious questions have been raised by our candidates. We hope to present this in a consolidated form to the Election Commission tomorrow or day after. We will seek time... We will bring it to the notice of the Election Commission and what we have seen today in Haryana is a victory for manipulation, a victory for subverting the will of the people and it is a defeat for transparent democratic processes," he said.

The party leaders also alleged that the EVMs that had 99 per cent battery showed that the party was losing, but the machines that had lower batteries showed it was winning.

"The EVM is manipulated in some parts of Haryana," said Congress leader Pawan Khera.

Ramesh has also written to the Election Commission, alleging a "slowdown" in updating trends for the Haryana elections on the EC website.

"Like Lok Sabha elections, in Haryana we are again witnessing slowing down of uploading up-to-date trends on the ECI website. Is the BJP trying to build pressure on the administration by sharing outdated and misleading trends @ECISVEEP?" he wrote on X.

However, the Election Commission responded to Ramesh, saying that the allegations are baseless.

"Approximately 25 rounds across all constituencies are being updated every five minutes. Counting is being done as per statutory provisions," the poll body wrote on X.

"The Commission notes that previously on June 4, 2024, in the context of General Elections 2024, a somewhat similar concern was raised by INC, which was ill founded and dismissed by the Commissioner." the election commission said.

Thanking the people of Jammu and Kashmir for their decisive mandate to the NC-INC alliance, Ramesh further said that the coalition government will be transparent and answerable. They said, the top most priority of the government will be restoration of the statehood to Jammu and Kashmir. There will be a common programme, apart from the respective manifestoes of the two parties. The alliance will provide a "responsible, responsive, accountable and transparent government", he said.

"The people of Jammu and Kashmir have given a clear and categorical verdict in favour of the NC-INC alliance", they said, pointing out how the BJP tried till last minute to manipulate and cobble up a majority by various means. "People of JK have defeated the mischievous designs of the BJP to engineer a majority of their own," he said.

IAF Chief calls for strong force amid ongoing wars

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE Indian Air Force Chief on Tuesday underscored the relevance of effective air power as evidenced in the ongoing Russia-Ukraine conflict and West Asia. Air Chief Marshal (ACM) AP Singh was addressing the 92nd anniversary of the Indian Air Force (IAF) at the Air Force Station, Tambaram in Chennai. He underscored the need for IAF to remain prepared to meet any contingency that challenges the national interests.

"The current global security environment is in a state of flux. The ongoing conflicts have demonstrated an inescapable need to have a strong and capable air force," said the ACM. Adopting the latest technology along with innovative and out-of-the-box thinking will play a decisive role in today's multi-domain environment, he said.

"Over the years, we have become more empowered with better technology and achieved new levels of op-exploitation of systems & weapons. Self-reliance in the field of defence R&D and manufacturing is our priority," he said. "One of our primary objectives is to deliver weapons, on target, on time, every time. This capability was aptly showcased during the firepower demonstration exercise 'Vayu Shakti' at Pokhran Range in February 2024," he said.

Chief of Defence Staff Gen Anil Chauhan attended the celebrations, while the ceremonial parade was reviewed by the ACM. "This year, the IAF has expanded its participation in bilateral and multilateral exercises with friendly countries. He stated the successful conduct of the largest multi-national exercise on Indian soil 'Tarang Shakti' was a testimony to the competence and professionalism of India's air warriors," said Gen Chauhan.

The Chief of Air Staff asserted that IAF has always been the first responder for humanitarian assistance and disaster relief both within and outside the country. He reaffirmed IAF's full commitment to providing a conducive and working environment to the air warriors, terming the welfare and well-being of the personnel & their families as of utmost importance.

Noting that Air Force Day was an occasion to honour the 'courage' and 'valour' of warriors, past and present, and pay homage to those who made supreme sacrifice, Singh said, "While we rededicate ourselves to the service of the nation, we must also look back to introspect on the previous year, celebrate our achievements, recognise areas where we fell short, learn our lessons and realign ourselves to the present and future requirements."

India, Germany discuss ways to strengthen ties

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

AMID the ongoing state of flux due to conflicts in parts of the world and its negative impact on supply chain, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on Tuesday held a phone conversation with the German Federal Minister of Defence Boris Pistorius.

"The ministers discussed ways to further strengthen the defence industrial collaboration and enhance supply chain resilience," the Ministry of Defence (MoD) said.

They planned to meet in the near future to give shape to the defence engagements and joint projects with an aim to transform defence as a key pillar of India-Germany bilateral relationship, said MoD.

The talks followed the review of the ongoing defence cooperations, including exercises in the air and maritime domains.

During his visit last year, the German defence minister had held a bilateral meeting with Rajnath Singh in New Delhi.

West Asia conflict leading to online radicalisation in India: Intel report

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

THE intelligence agencies in their report to the Union Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) have alerted that with the West Asian crisis escalating as Israel engages in war on multiple fronts, there has been an increasing trend of online radicalisation of gullible youth in India, sources said on Tuesday.

In its report to the Multi-Agency Centre under the MHA, the report highlighted that there has been a massive increase in traffic on the internet relating to "attack videos and literature", which portray the strikes on Muslims by Israel as "genocide", the sources said.

With Israel attacking Hezbollah in Lebanon and killing individuals in Iran, these have posed a "new challenge" for the security forces in India with elements from across the United States and Europe spreading provocative online contents through newly launched websites, which need to be looked into and blocked, the intelligence agencies suggested.

At present this is posing a major challenge for the Indian security establishment, as multi-faceted radicalisation has been on the rise and is leading to "anti-America" and "anti-Israel" sentiments among the gullible youth, they noted.

"There is a possibility of online radicalisation getting morphed into extremism and, eventually, attacks. Radicalisation in India is high, mainly among Shia Muslims that remained untouched so far," the intelligence report said.

It is also learnt from the sources that developments in West Asia are impacting Shia pockets across the country, as Lucknow, Leh, Ladakh, Hyderabad and Delhi have witnessed unusual online traffic depicting attacks and abuse against America and Israel.

Noting that the current trend was never seen in India, the sources said, the intelligence report also indicated collection of funds in the Shia-inhabited pockets for giving aid and support to people in Lebanon and Gaza. Even a few of the NGOs are also found providing similar financial support, they said.

The Intelligence agencies have said that those who are propagating a particular type of narratives are working on particular algorithms, as children and women are being used to display the brutalities by America and Israel. They also said that such trends were noted during the Syrian civil war.

The report comes a year after the October 7 attacks led by Hamas terrorists that plunged West Asia into a crisis.

After the October 7 attacks, Israel launched retaliatory attacks to rescue abducted civilians and decimate the Hamas leadership responsible for engineering the raids.

INCREASING SOLIDARITY

According to sources, the developments in West Asia are impacting Shia pockets across India, as Lucknow, Leh, Ladakh, Hyderabad and Delhi have witnessed unusual online traffic depicting the attacks and abuse against America and Israel. Noting that the current trend was never seen in India, sources said, the intelligence report indicated collection of funds in the Shia-inhabited pockets.

Films, social media powerful mediums to bring about change, says Murmu

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

PRESIDENT Droupadi Murmu said on Tuesday that films and social media are powerful mediums to bring changes in the society and make more impact in creating awareness among people. Murmu presented Mithun Chakraborty the Dadasaheb Phalke Award and honoured other winners of the 70th National Film Awards, including music composer AR Rahman, actors Rishab Shetty, Nithya Menen and Manasi Parekh.

"Our films reflect the artistic sense of our society... Life is changing. The paradigms of art are changing... Amidst all these changes, the unchanging values of love, compassion, and service are still making our individual and collective lives meaningful. We can see all these values portrayed in the films awarded today," she said.

The President said though the languages and backgrounds of award-winning films may be different, they all are reflections of India. "These films are a treasure trove of experiences of Indian society. Indian traditions and their diversity come alive in these films," she said.

The President said the film industry can contribute to women-led development. "I attend many convocation functions at educational institutions. The number of female students receiving awards is more than that of male students. The film industry can make more efforts towards women-led development," she said, noting out of about 85 awards presented, only 15 were given to women artists.

Chakraborty said he would always whine about his looks and continuous struggle but after getting the award, he had stopped complaining to God. Urging youth to strive, he said, "They shouldn't lose hope even if they don't have resources. They may sleep but don't let their dreams doze off," he said.

I&B minister Ashwini Vaishnaw underlined the Centre's commitment to developing the film industry through a three-pronged strategy focusing on talent development, infrastructure and simplification.

AIBA prez seeks norms on decorum for judges

SUCHITRA K MOHANTY @ New Delhi

FORMER Supreme Court Bar Association (SCBA) president Adish Aggarwala has written a letter to Chief Justice of India DY Chandrachud requesting him to frame guidelines on decorum for judges while interacting with lawyers during judicial proceedings.

Aggarwala, who is the president of the All India Bar Association (AIBA), and a senior lawyer of the top court, suggested creation of a monitoring mechanism by a committee, led by a retired SC Judge. "There is a growing and deeply concerning issue — the increasing incidence of demeaning and disrespectful behavior towards advocates within courtrooms," his letter read.

Highlighting a disturbing trend that undermines the mutual respect that must exist between the Bar and the Bench for the effective administration of justice, Aggarwala referred to a recent incident at the Madurai Bench of the Madras High Court. The concerned senior judge Justice R. Subramanian was seen shouting and using inappropriate language during virtual proceedings towards a well respected senior advocate P. Wilson and the Advocate on Record.

Despite Wilson's clear intent, which was to highlight a potential conflict of interest without seeking the recusal of the junior judge, the senior judge responded with aggression. He berated both advocates, even though the senior advocate repeatedly and politely clarified his position. In an effort to ease the situation, the senior advocate also extended a humble apology, yet the judge persisted in his criticism and went so far as to make unfounded accusations of unethical behavior against the Advocate on Record, for instructing the senior advocate, Aggarwala's letter stated.

"With the increasing use of virtual courtrooms, it is now easier to monitor court interactions between judges and advocates. We propose the creation of a monitoring mechanism, overseen by a committee headed by the retired Supreme Court Judge, that reviews virtual court proceedings to ensure that the conduct of both judges and advocates is in line with established norms of professional behaviour," the letter further read.

Centre appoints three advocates as judges of Gujarat High Court

SUCHITRA K MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Centre on Tuesday notified the appointment of three advocates as judges of the Gujarat High Court.

After deliberation of 55 days, the Centre named Sanjeev Jayendra Thaker, Deeptendra Narayan Ray, and Maulik Jitendra Shelat.

Earlier on August 13, the apex court's three-member collegium had recommended their names as Gujarat HC judges.

Union law minister Arjun Ram Meghwal also confirmed their appointment via his official social media handle, X.

Before the SC Collegium recommended their names, the Chief Justice of Gujarat High Court, in consultation with his two seniormost colleagues, recommended their names on December 22 last year.

The Supreme Court collegium noted that the Chief Minister and the Governor of the state of Gujarat had not conveyed their views on the said recommendation.

BJP's caste calculus strikes a chord in Haryana hurricane

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

IN the final vote count, Haryana has sent pollsters back to the drawing board. Turning the exit polls on their head, the state has chosen for a record third time the BJP government since the state came into being in 1966. Big shots in the state Congress are scratching their head in disbelief even as the BJP enjoys the last laugh. In rough Haryanvi language, Chief Minister Nayab Singh Saini has "fixed the pole in the ground (lath gaad diya)."

How did it happen, should it have happened, when, on all counts, the Congress began the fight as a hot favourite with a catchy and effective slogan of 'kisan' (farmers), 'pahelwan' (wrestlers) and 'jawan' (soldiers)?

The Congress emphasis was on the Jat vote bank comprising almost 27% of the state's electorate. There lay the rub: the leader of opposition Bhupinder Singh Hooda, a Jat, pushed for his candidates and got nominations for 72 of them. Of the 28 MLAs of the party, which he preferred, only 13 won.

SS Chahar, former director of Centre of Haryana Studies in Rohtak, said: "BJP's micro-management—from booth level and above—was well up to the mark. RSS too played a vital role."

Secondly, Chahar says, migrant and floating vote went to the party while the BJP vote base remained silent this time. "The saffron party focused its entire campaign on former CM Hooda and his son. The non-Jat vote bank, the SCs and OBCs, consolidated in favour of the party as the ruling party announced a string of sops before the polls," said Chahar. Saini was picked as the face of this formidable combination to helm the state.

While it remains debatable as to what extent "deras" (small religious hubs) impact the poll outcome, it is known that dera chiefs' say matters a lot in influencing opinion in rural areas. For instance, Dera Sacha Sauda's main centre is in Sirsa. With multiple branches across the state and its followers mainly drawn from marginalised communities, the impact of parole to Ram Rahim on poll-eve is yet to be gauged.

Besides, the BJP chose fresh faces to combat 10-year anti-incumbency and also focused on OBC vote, which was around 38%. The replacement of M L Khattar as CM with Nayab Singh Saini did the trick for the saffron party.

The infighting in the Congress, especially between Sirsa MP and SC face of the party Kumari Selja and Bhupinder Singh Hooda seems to have played a key role in the party's loss.

BJP fails to impress Valley, Cong lacks force in Jammu

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

TEN years after the 2014 Assembly polls and five years after Article 370 abrogation, the BJP has been unable to make inroads into Muslim-dominated Kashmir as its influence is confined to seven districts of the Jammu region in the Assembly polls. This is a worrying sign for the saffron party's 'Naya Kashmir' narrative and indicates "acceptability" issue in the Valley.

Almost conversely, the Congress won only six Assembly seats in J&K, including one from the Jammu region. The big question for Congress remains whether it missed the opportunity by not campaigning aggressively enough in the elections in the Jammu region, where it was in a direct fight with the BJP.

For the BJP, the situation is similar to 2014 when it won all its 25 seats from the Jammu region. It means the situation is no different. The BJP contested all 43 seats in Jammu region in 2024 Assembly polls. It left 19 out of 47 seats in Kashmir to smaller parties and individuals backed by it. The party has secured 29 seats, all from Jammu region. The turncoats, who joined the party ahead of the polls, could not win in the Muslim-dominated areas.

The poll results show the BJP could not open account in Ramban and Poonch districts and secured only one seat in another hilly and border district of Rajouri. Even J&K BJP chief Ravindra Raina, who is at the helm for over five years, could not win from his home constituency Nowshera in Rajouri district and lost to NC's Surinder Kumar Chowdhary.

Political commentator Noor Mohammad Baba says people in Kashmir have demonstrated clearly that they don't support BJP and what it did on August 5, 2019. He said the disapproval of PDP for its alliance with BJP in 2014 also points to it. A BJP leader said the party is being seen as a Hindu party in Kashmir.

In the case of Jammu, Congress contested 29 seats. This region has always seen a bipolar fight. That's why the BJP focused its campaign on Jammu, its stronghold.

However, Congress failed to give attention to the Jammu region despite contesting more seats from there. Rahul Gandhi could not campaign in the last phase of polls and his two rallies in Jammu on September 27 were cancelled due to bad weather. The low-key campaigning by Rahul in Jammu region was baffling as he had received support in the region during his Bharat Jodo Yatra. Former deputy CM Tara Chand said the party got less time to campaign.

SOFTSPOKEN SAINI MAKES A MARK OF HIS OWN IN JATLAND

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

NAYAB Singh Saini is perceived to be a low-profile politician who belongs to the Other Backward Classes (OBCs). The 54-year-old softspoken Saini rose through the ranks in the party to become the chief minister for the first time in March this year, replacing Manohar Lal Khattar. And he is expected to secure another term as the saffron party's gamble has paid off with Saini leading the party to a historic third consecutive victory in the assembly elections.

Saini's win has come against the backdrop of the party's dismal showing in the Lok Sabha elections in the state a few months ago. The victory also defies exit poll predictions of a clean sweep for the Congress.

Saini, considered an aide of Khattar, was born on January 25, 1970, at Mirzapur Majra village in Ambala. He did his graduation from BR Ambedkar University in July 1996 and then LLB from Choudhary Charan Singh University, Meerut (UP) in 2010.

Saini started his career in the saffron party's organisational framework in 1996. In 2002, he became the general secretary of the Amabla district youth wing. He also held the position of district president and general secretary of the state BJP Kisan Morcha.

Saini was elected MLA from the Naraingarh assembly segment in 2014 when BJP came to power in the state for the first time. Saini was also a minister in the Khattar cabinet. He won from Kurukshetra in the 2019 LS polls. The Saini community comprises around 8% of the state population. It wields influence in many northern districts of the state.

Jolt to Chautala clan, AAP routed on home ground

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

THE once all-powerful Chautala clan looked emaciated on Tuesday. Except for Arjun Chautala and Aditya Devi Lal, all the other members of the family who contested the Assembly polls lost.

The INLD won two seats this time, both new faces of the family. On the other hand, the JJP of Dushyant Chautala, who emerged as a kingmaker in the 2019 polls by winning 10 seats, lost and so did his brother and other party candidates.

AAP, too, stood routed in Haryana; it could not even open its account. Interestingly, however, it had more vote share than JJP. As many as seven members of the Chautala family contested, but only two of them won. The party has a 4.14% vote share. Arjun Chautala (32) won from Rania (Sirsa) defeating 79-year-old Ranjit Chautala, an independent and younger brother of his grandfather Om Prakash Chautala, the son of late deputy PM Chaudhary Devi Lal. JJP's Dushyant Chautala lost from Uchana Kalan, the constituency that he considered his stronghold. Aditya Devi Lal (47) defeated JJP's Digvijay Chautala, his distant relative, and Amit Sihag of Congress.

Sunaina Chautala of INLD lost from Fatehabad, she is the daughter-in-law of Om Prakash Chautala's elder brother Pratap Singh Chautala.

The Chautala family vertically split in 2018.

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

OMAR Abdullah, 54, is poised to become the first chief minister of Jammu and Kashmir Union Territory. His political journey began at the age of 28 when he became an MP. He served as the member of Union cabinet under then PM Atal Bihari Vajpayee. He held the post of the MoS External Affairs.

After the fall of the Vajpayee government, he focused on J&K politics and contested his first Assembly election in 2002 from Ganderbal, his family's stronghold in central Kashmir. Despite losing his maiden Assembly poll from Ganderbal, six years later, he again contested from Ganderbal seat and emerged victorious. He became the youngest CM of J&K in 2009 and completed his full term.

After the 2014 polls, Abduallah's power waned and as the PDP-BJP coalition government took over, and he assumed the role of an opposition leader. He was arrested and booked under stringent PSA after Article 370 abrogation on August 5, 2019. During his eight months long detention, he did not cut his beard as a sign of defiance.

He contested the recently held Lok Sabha polls from Baramulla seat in north Kashmir but lost to Er Rashid, who was in jail.

Once the Assembly election bugle was sounded, he not only changed his decision of not contesting till statehood was restored but also contested from two seats—Budgam and Ganderbal and won from the both seats.

Now, from being reluctant to contest the polls, he is just days away from taking over as first CM of J&K UT.

Er Rashid, banned Jamaat fail to make any impact

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

BARAMULLA MP Er Rashid's magic vanished in the Assembly polls. So is the case with Apni Party of Altaf Bukhari, DPAP of Ghulam Nabi Azad and Peoples Conference of Sajjad Gani Lone and banned Jamaat-e-Islami.

While in jail Er Rashid had defeated two political heavy eights Omar Abdullah and Sajjad Gani Lone in Baramulla in recently held Lok Sabha elections but his magic waned in the Assembly polls.

He campaigned aggressively and extensively in south, central and north Kashmir and was hopeful of winning a good number of seats to emerge as a king-maker in the government formation. But people's "love for him" did not last long and his party could win only one seat. His brother Khurshid Ahmed Sheikh, who had quit his government job before polls, won from home constituency of Langate in Kupwara district.

Political analyst Noor Mohammad Baba said Er Rashid got sympathy votes in the Lok Sabha pollwws. "But after his release, he started showing ambition to play a larger role in Kashmir politics. He did not share that kind of victimhood any longer," Baba said.

While Sajjad could manage to win one of the two seats he contested, the Apni Party, which was floated seven months after Article 370 abrogation, and DPAP drew blank.

AI PIONEERS WIN PHYSICS NOBEL

STOCKHOLM

TWO pioneers of artificial intelligence — John Hopfield and Geoffrey Hinton — won the Nobel Prize in physics Tuesday for helping create the building blocks of machine learning that is revolutionizing the way we work and live but also creates new threats for humanity.

Hinton, who is known as the godfather of artificial intelligence, is a citizen of Canada and Britain who works at the University of Toronto, and Hopfield is an American working at Princeton.

John Hopfield

Geoffrey Hinton

"These two gentlemen were really the pioneers," said Nobel physics committee member Mark Pearce. "They ... did the fundamental work, based on physical understanding which has led to the revolution we see today in machine learning and artificial intelligence."

The artificial neural networks — interconnected computer nodes inspired by neurons in the human brain — the researchers pioneered are used throughout science and medicine and "have also become part of our daily lives, for instance in facial recognition and language translation," said Ellen Moons, a member of the Nobel committee at the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences.

Hopfield, whose 1982 work laid the groundwork for Hinton's, told The Associated Press Tuesday, "I continue to be amazed by the impact it has had."

Hinton predicted that AI will end up having a "huge influence" on civilization, bringing improvements in productivity and health care. "It would be comparable with the Industrial Revolution," he said in an open call with reporters and officials of the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences.

"Instead of exceeding people in physical strength, it's going to exceed people in intellectual ability. We have no experience of what it's like to have things smarter than us. And it's going to be wonderful in many respects," Hinton said.

"But we also have to worry about a number of possible bad consequences, particularly the threat of these things getting out of control." The Nobel committee also mentioned fears about the possible flipside.

Moons said that while it has "enormous benefits, its rapid development has also raised concerns about our future. Collectively, humans carry the responsibility for using this new technology in a safe and ethical way for the greatest benefit of humankind." Hinton shares those concerns. AP

Israel expands offensive against Hezbollah

The Iran-backed militias fired rockets at Haifa; latest escalation comes after Netanyahu vowed to continue fight

BEIRUT

ISRAEL ramped up its ground offensive against Hezbollah along the southern section of the Lebanese coast on Tuesday, deploying more troops and urging civilians near the Mediterranean to evacuate. The Iran-backed Hezbollah group said it fired rockets at the Israeli port city of Haifa, after the Israeli military reported 85 projectiles crossing from Lebanon.

The latest escalation followed Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's vow to fight a "sacred war" until Hezbollah and Hamas are defeated. Israel expanded operations in Lebanon nearly a year after Hezbollah began exchanging fire in support of its ally, Hamas, following the Palestinian group's deadly attack on Israel on October 7, 2023.

While battling Hamas in Gaza, Israel has vowed to secure its northern border with Lebanon to allow tens of thousands of Israelis displaced by Hezbollah's cross-border fire to return home. Both Hamas and Hezbollah have pledged no letup against Israel, and on Tuesday Hezbollah's deputy lader Naim Qassem said the group would make it impossible for Israelis to return to the north.

Israel launched a wave of strikes against Hezbollah strongholds in Lebanon on September 23, leaving at least 1,110 people dead since then and forcing more than a million people to flee. Israeli attacks have mainly targeted Hezbollah strongholds in southern and eastern Lebanon, as well as south Beirut.

While the coast has not been spared, Israel's latest evacuation warning suggests it is extending its offensive northwards. On its Telegram channel, the Israeli military said its 146th Division began "limited, localised, targeted operational activities" against Hezbollah targets and infrastructure in southwestern Lebanon. A day earlier, the military had warned people to stay away from the the southern part of Lebanon's Mediterranean coast, with a spokesman saying Israel would "soon operate in the maritime area against Hezbollah's terrorist activities" south of the Al-Awali river.

In Sidon, fishermen stayed ashore and the seafood market was unusually quiet. "Fishing was the way we supported our children," said fisherman Issam Haboush. The Israeli military said it hit Hezbollah's south Beirut bastion. Hezbollah later said it repelled Israeli troops who "infiltrated from behind" a UN peacekeepers' position in the southern border village of Labboune. Hezbollah's deputy leader said despite Israel's "painful" strikes, the group's leadership structure was in order and its military capabilities were "fine". "Netanyahu says he wants to bring back" the displaced to their homes in northern Israel, Qassem said. But "we say that many more residents will be forced to flee" their homes, he warned.

Israeli Defence Minister Yoav Gallant later said Hezbollah "is a battered and broken organisation, without significant command and fire capabilities, with a disintegrated leadership following the elimination of Hassan Nasrallah".

The expansion in the fighting came a day after Israelis and people around the world marked the first anniversary of Hamas's October 7 attack on Israel. For families of the bereaved, as well as relatives of 251 people taken hostage into Gaza, the pain was especially acute. Of the total number, 97 hostages are still being held, including 34 the Israeli military says are dead. The conflict has since spilt into Lebanon, with Israeli troops battling Hezbollah, while other Iran-backed groups, including Yemen's Houthi rebels, have also stepped in. As Iran awaits what Israel has said will be retaliation for an Iranian missile barrage last week, Tehran hailed the October 7 attack. In a pre-recorded television address, Netanyahu said, "As long as the enemy threatens our existence and the peace of our country, we will continue to fight. As long as our hostages are still in Gaza, we will continue to fight," he said.

Weakened but not crushed after a year of war, Hamas was defiant. AFP

Gaza civil defence says Israeli strike kills 17

Gaza's civil defence agency on Tuesday said an Israeli strike killed at least 17 people at a refugee camp in the centre of the territory, as Israel's military targets Hamas positions. "The civil defence teams recovered 17 martyrs, including children, and several others who were wounded from the three-story home of the Abdul Hadi family, which was bombed by a missile from an (Israeli) warplane in Al-Bureij refugee camp in central Gaza," agency spokesman Mahmud Bassal said in a statement. Bassal said that several air strikes rocked central and northern Gaza since the early hours

Tit for tat: China slaps provisional tariffs on brandy imports from EU

BEIJING

CHINA said on Tuesday it would impose provisional tariffs on brandy imported from the EU, marking the latest salvo in an escalating trade row between Beijing and Brussels. The two are major economic partners but have butted heads in recent months over Beijing's generous subsidies for its domestic industries.

Brussels argues that the support undermines the principle of free competition and helped drive down the prices of Chinese exports, undercutting European competitors.

Beijing has denied the claims and accuses Brussels of protectionism. China launched an investigation this year into EU brandy, months after the bloc undertook a probe into Chinese electric vehicle subsidies.

Beijing said in August it would not impose provisional tariffs on brandy makers, even though it had found evidence of dumping, but did not rule out subsequent measures.

From Friday, operators will have to pay a "corresponding guarantee" to Chinese customs when importing EU brandy into the country, the commerce ministry in Beijing said.

It said the amount would be based on calculations involving prices approved by customs, as well as import taxes. The investigation had "preliminarily determined that imports of certain brandy originating from the European Union were being dumped, threatening substantial damage to the domestic brandy industry", the ministry said.

The European Union said that it would seek to challenge the new measures announced by Beijing. The European Commission's trade spokesperson Olof Gill said in a statement, "We believe that these measures are unfounded, and we are determined to defend EU industry against the abuse of trade defence instruments." AFP

DIGITAL WALL

US judge tells Google to open Android app store to rivals

SAN FRANCISCO

A federal judge on Monday ordered Google to tear down the digital walls shielding its Android app store from competition as punishment for maintaining an illegal monopoly that helped expand the company's internet empire.

The injunction issued by US district Judge James Donato will require Google to make several changes that the company had been resisting. Those include a provision that will require its Play Store for Android apps to distribute rival third-party app stores so consumers can download them to their phones, if they so desire.

The judge's order will also make the millions of Android apps in the Play Store library accessible to rivals, allowing them to offer up a competitive selection. Donato is giving Google until November to make the revisions dictated in his order. The company had insisted it would take 12 to 16 months to design the safeguards needed to reduce the chances of potentially malicious software making its way into rival Android app stores and infecting millions of Samsung phones and other mobile devices running on its free Android software.

The court-mandated overhaul is meant to prevent Google from walling off competition in the Android app market as part of an effort to protect a commission system that has been a boon for the company.

Google said in a blog post that it will ask the court to pause the pending changes, and will appeal the court's decision. Donato also ruled that, for a period of three years ending Nov 1, 2027, Google won't be able to share revenue from its Play Store with anyone who distributes Android apps or is considering launching an Android app distribution platform or store. It also won't be allowed to pay developers, or share revenue. AP

As worst storm in a century nears Florida, Biden call for evacuation

FORT MYERS BEACH

FLORIDA's Gulf Coast braced on Tuesday for the impact of Hurricane Milton's winds and expected massive storm surge, which could bring destruction to areas already reeling from Helene's devastation 12 days ago and still recovering from Ian's wrath two years ago.

Hurricane Milton, the Category 4 storm, could be the worst to hit Florida in a century, President Joe Biden said Tuesday. "Evacuate now, now, now," Biden said, speaking about areas of the state where people have been ordered to leave, added "it's a matter of life and death."

Biden postponed a trip to Germany and Angola – he had been due to leave Thursday – to oversee the federal response, as storm relief efforts have become a political battleground ahead of the election. Almost the entirety of Florida's west coast was under a hurricane warning early Tuesday as the storm and its 155 mph (250 kph) winds crept toward the state at 9 mph (14 kph), sucking energy from the Gulf of Mexico's warm water.

The strongest Atlantic hurricane on record is 1980's Allen, which reached wind speeds of 190 mph (306 kph) as it moved through the Caribbean and Gulf before striking Texas and Mexico. . AP/AFP

Mkt rebounds on BJP's win in Haryana

Election results to provide Dalal Street some relief and confidence, ahead of Maha polls

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

A positive election result in Haryana for the ruling political party - BJP - lifted investors sentiment on Tuesday, thereby helping the market to end its longest losing streak of this year. Indian benchmark indices - BSE Sensex and NSE Nifty50 - rose on Tuesday after closing in decline for six straight sessions. At close, the Sensex was up 584.81 points or 0.72% at 81,634.81, and the Nifty was up 217.40 points or 0.88% at 25,013.20.

"BJP's victory in Haryana is a positive development for the markets, particularly given that exit polls had suggested an opposite outcome, contributing to market pressure yesterday," said Santosh Meena, Head of Research, Swastika Investmart. Of the 90 assembly seats in Haryana, BJP won 48 seats, according to the Election Commission website. The Congress, which was sure of a comeback, won 37 seats.

He added, "While the recent market correction is driven by various factors, there is still some nervousness surrounding upcoming state elections. However, the outcome in Haryana, a focal point for the farmer agitation, is expected to provide the market with some relief and confidence, especially as it looks ahead to the Maharashtra elections."

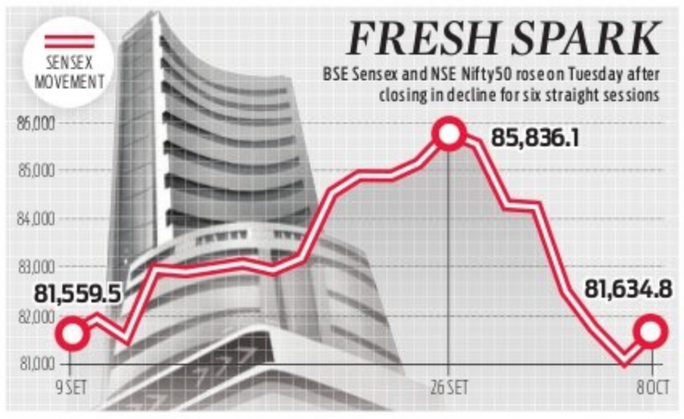
Prashanth Tapse, Senior VP (Research), Mehta Equities, said that the recovery was seen despite weak cues from Asian and European markets, although the short to medium-term domestic market outlook remains hazy amid FPI sell-offs and lingering West Asia conflict.

Relentless selling by foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) and growing tension in the Middle East have created nervousness in the Indian market.

FPI, who are shifting their focus to China, sold shares worth ₹5,730 crore on Tuesday in the Indian equity market. China's benchmark Shanghai Composite Index surged by 4.59% on Tuesday while the Shenzhen Index rose by 9.17%.

Meanwhile, Hong Kong's Hang Seng Index fell more than 9% on Tuesday, its biggest fall in 16 years, after China left investors disappointed by a lack of new stimulus and few details about measures announced in late September.

Among the Nifty50 stocks, Trent, Adani Enterprises, Adani Ports, Bharat Electronics, and M&M were the top gainers. Tata Steel, SBI Life Insurance, Titan Company, JSW Steel and Bajaj Finserv were the major laggards. Except for metal, all other sectoral indices ended in the green. Adani Group stocks were among the top gainers after the Haryana election results. Shares of flagship company Adani Enterprise Ltd surged 5%. Government-owned stocks were also in high demand.



Vi in talks with DoT on bank guarantee norms

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TELECOM service provider Vodafone Idea (Vi) on Tuesday said that it is engaged with the government to remove the bank guarantee requirements for spectrum acquired before 2022. The company, in an exchange filing, mentioned that this is also a demand from the entire telecom industry.

"The company has made detailed representations to the DoT (Department of Telecommunication) and continues to be engaged with DOT for removal of the bank guarantee requirements for spectrum acquired before 2022. This is also an industry ask," said VI in an exchange filing.

The company's plea comes after the DoT recently issued a notice to Vi to pay the required bank guarantee following its spectrum purchase. While the DoT has been considering the removal of bank guarantee requirements for spectrum purchased before 2022, no final decision has been made yet. This means that Vodafone Idea, along with other telecom operators, will need to submit bank guarantees by September 2025, when the moratorium on spectrum auction dues expires. The bank guarantee requirements are estimated to be substantial for Vi, with the company needing to submit over ₹24,700 crore in total. Reliance Jio and Bharti Airtel would also benefit from a waiver of the bank guarantee requirement.

'Ola, Porter fail to provide fair pay, safe working conditions for workers'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

RIDE-hailing platform Ola and logistics startup Porter continue to be the worst platforms for gig workers. Last year too they scored zero on a scale of 1 to 10, as per Fairwork India Ratings 2024: Labour Standards in the Platform Economy report, which was released on Tuesday.

They have been failing as these platforms don't have policies in place to protect workers from foundational risks arising from the processes of work, no minimum wage policy, among other things. This is the fourth year in a row that Ola has scored zero. Uber, which scored one point last year, has scored zero this year.

The report, a study of the work conditions of platform workers on digital labour platforms, evaluates 11 platforms offering location-based services in sectors such as domestic and personal care, logistics, food delivery, and transportation. It assessed platforms against five principles: Fair pay, fair conditions, fair contracts, fair management, and fair representation.

Tata-owned BigBasket has topped with the highest score of 6 out of 10 points. Last year too it topped fairness table with 6 points. Only BigBasket and Urban Company were awarded the first point under fair pay for instituting a minimum wage policy that guaranteed their workers earn at least hourly local minimum wage. No platform earned second point under fair pay, which requires platforms to commit to and ensure a local living wage after work-related costs or provide sufficient evidence that all workers earn at least this amount, the report said.

This year witnessed gig workers' welfare increasingly gaining attention in political manifestos and legislative initiatives

Magicpin largest food delivery app on ONDC

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

FOOD delivery app magicpin has touched nearly 1,50,000 daily food and logistics orders on the Open Network for Digital Commerce (ONDC), becoming the largest food delivery seller app on the network.

Since joining the ONDC network in March last year, magicpin has grown, expanding its restaurant partnerships from 22,000 to 70,000 as of September 2024. Anshoo Sharma, CEO & Co-Founder, magicpin said, "In the last 15 months, we have touched double-digit market share in major cities, with more than 10% market share in key markets like Delhi or Bengaluru in terms of overall food delivery." He added that on ONDC, they have reached 1.5 lakh daily orders for food delivery and logistics. Of this, about 90% of food orders from prominent buyer apps such as Paytm, Tata Neu, and Ola are now fulfilled by magicpin. Recently, the company announced an investment of ₹100 crore to onboard 1 lakh new restaurants and cloud kitchens on ONDC. The funds are invested towards offering onboarding incentives like zero commission, zero onboarding fees, major discounts and free home delivery for customers by newly partnered restaurants.

Discount brokers' revenue to trim 25% with new Sebi norms

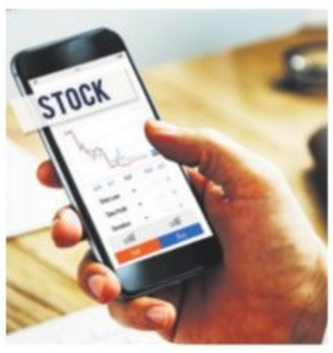
BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

MARKET regulator Sebi's revised equity index derivatives framework, announced on October 1, is expected to hit transaction volumes in the futures and options segment, ultimately impacting revenue and profitability of brokerages, especially discount brokers on one hand and on the other the revised transaction charges will directly trim their profits, warns a report.

For many brokers, derivatives account for 95% of their volume, in line with market trends. However, the extent of impact will vary based on business model--being a discount or full-service brokers. While discount borkers are set to see at least 25% dip in their pretax profit,full service ones may find it easier to go with 10% fall in pre-tax profit, as per a Crisil analysis.

The Sebi blow came in on the heels of stock exchanges had revised their transaction charges from September 27, which will impact profitability, especially of discount brokers.

On their part, brokers are revamping their revenue and cost models to mitigate the impact of these new norms. However, their ability to fully do so would be constrained by severe competition. In general, operational and compliance intensity will increase for the sector, the report wared.



Sebi has introduced a slew of measures on derivatives trading, with a three-pronged intent. One, raising entry barriers for transacting in derivatives for the retail who have been heavily losing money yet continuing to trade, by hiking the contract sizes and mandating upfront premium collections from buyers.

Two, curbing market volatility due to speculative activity close to expiry dates by limiting weekly index derivatives offered by exchanges to one each and removing the margin benefit available on offsetting positions across different expiries on the expiry day.

The third blow is controlling and building a cushion for risks by mandating intraday monitoring of position limits and requiring additional margins on short options contracts on the expiry day.

According to Subha Sri Narayanan, a director with the agency, the revenue contribution from derivatives is the highest for discount brokers at 60-80 percent. On the other hand, revenue contribution is relatively lower at 10-30 percent for full-service brokers due to their diversified revenue profile. With a relatively low proportion of other revenue streams currently and the more stringent eligibility criteria for retail customers now, discount brokers, who cater predominantly to the retail segment, can see the largest impact, with new customer acquisition also slowing.

Proprietary traders will not be insulated from the effect of the expected drop in derivatives volumes either.

Discount brokers are also likely to be the most impacted by the revised transaction charge structure. From October 1 a uniform transaction charge for each category of trade has replaced volume-based slab-wise charges.

Not applying for benefits under EV policy: BYD

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

CHINESE electric vehicle (EV) giant BYD said on Tuesday that they are not applying for benefits under the new EV policy which was introduced earlier this year by the central government to attract global brands, particularly Tesla.

"Representatives of our company, who have a good idea about that policy went in, went through that. The final conclusion... is that we have decided that, no, we are not ready to implement this policy in the short term. So, we are not applying," said BYD India Head of Electric Passenger Vehicles Business Rajeev Chauhan.

Under the new EV policy, foreign carmakers will be allowed to import a limited number of cars at a lower customs/import duty of 15% on vehicles costing $ 35,000 and above for five years. The carmaker, however, will have to commit a certain amount of investment and meet localisation norms among other things.

When asked about the automaker's intention to set up a local manufacturing unit in India, Chauhan said that having a facility gives some advantages, but BYD India is not there yet. "We are, I can confidently say that in the short term, we are not doing that," he added.

According to reports, BYD is keen on making cars in India but is yet to receive positive feedback from the Indian government. BYD, in partnership with an Indian firm, last year submitted a $1 billion investment proposal to build EVs in India.

However, the proposal remains stuck given India has increased scrutiny of investments from China following a border clash between the troops of the two nations in 2020.

CHINA

MORE SUPPORT FOR ECONOMY

China's economic planning agency outlined details of measures aimed at boosting economy on Tuesday but refrained from major spending initiatives. The plans announced on Tuesday appeared to disappoint investors who were hoping for bolder moves and Shanghai's benchmark gave up 10% initial gain as markets reopened after a week-long holiday to trade just 3% higher. The head of the National Development and Reform Commission said the government will frontload 100 billion Yuan ($14.1 bn) from the government's budget for 2025 in addition to 100 bn yuan for construction projects. The scale of spending was well below the multi-trillion yuan levels that analysts said might be expected. NDRC chairman Zheng Shanjie said China was on track to attain its full-year economic growth target of 5%.

THAILAND

HEADLINE INFLATION QUICKENS IN SEPTEMBER

Thailand's annual headline inflation grew faster in September primarily on account of higher prices of diesel and some vegetables, the commerce ministry said on Monday. However, this was still below the central bank's target range of 1% to 3%. The headline consumer price index rose 0.61% in September year-on-year as against August's annual increase of 0.35%. The headline inflation is expected to be 1.25% in October and about 1.49% in the final quarter of 2024, Poonpong Naiyanapakorn, director of the trade policy and strategy office, told a press conference. In January-September period, average annual headline inflation was 0.20%. The commerce ministry on Monday revised its forecast for the full year to between 0.2% to 0.8%, from between zero and 1% seen earlier.

JAPAN

FALL IN REAL WAGES IN AUGUST

Japan's inflation-adjusted wages declined in August. However, analysts say underlying trends point to a gradual recovery in pay and consumption and should support the central bank's plans for additional rate hikes. Household spending also declined in August. Real wages in the world's fourth-largest economy declined 0.6% in August from the same month a year earlier, as per a Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare statement issued on Tuesday. Real wages had turned up in June for the first time in more than two years as companies bumped up summertime bonuses, though the labour ministry had said the contribution of such special payments to the data would wane from August. Those payments rose 2.7% in August versus a revised 6.6% in July and 7.8% in June.

No impact due to advisory on Boeing 737 planes

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AKASA Air said on Tuesday there will be no disruptions to its flight operations due to the latest advisories issued by the DGCA regarding potential risk of a jammed rudder control system in Boeing 737 planes. The airline operates a fleet of 25 Boeing 737 MAX aircraft.

"Akasa can confirm that there will be no disruptions to our flight schedule as a result of the latest DGCA /Boeing advisories," the spokesperson said in a statement. On Monday, the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) issued an advisory to Indian airlines operating Boeing 737 planes regarding the potential risk. A recent probe report by the US National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) highlighted safety concerns involving Boeing 737 aircraft equipped with Collins Aerospace SVO-730 Rudder Rollout Guidance Actuators.

Against this backdrop, DGCA came up with the advisory. In August, Boeing informed affected operators of 737 planes about potential condition with the rudder rollout guidance actuator. The rudder rollout guidance actuator helps align an airplane's rudder with its nose wheel during takeoff and landing.

Cognizant engaged in discrimination against non-Indian workers: US jury

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

A US court has found IT services company Cognizant Technology Solutions guilty of discriminatory conduct towards non-Indian workers and that the company should pay punitive damages to compensate employees who suffered harm.

The case is Palmer v. Cognizant Tech Solutions and it claims the IT giant misused the H-1B visa programme. As per reports, the firm had the highest number of H-1B visas of any US employer from 2013 to 2019.

Cognizant in a statement said it is disappointed with the verdict and plans to defend itself and appeal at the appropriate time. "We provide equal employment opportunities for all and have built a diverse and inclusive workplace that promotes a culture of belonging in which all feel valued, are engaged and have the opportunity to develop and succeed," it said. It stated, "Cognizant doesn't tolerate discrimination and takes such claims seriously. Christy Palmer v. Cognizant was initially filed in 2017 and addresses plaintiffs' claims dating back to 2013."

The jury said the company engaged in a 'pattern or practice' of discrimination against a class of non-South Asian and non-Indian employees who were terminated. Plaintiffs claimed they were dismissed after a five-week period without work and that their positions were filled by Indian workers. The lawsuit claimed the firm used policies and practices related to hiring, promotion, and termination that have had a disparate impact on the basis of national origin and race that are neither job-related for the positions at issue nor consistent with business necessity.

Banks' deposit growth rates 2-month high in Sept

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

BUOYED by the special limited period schemes launched since July, banks' deposit rates grew at a more than two-month high in September. According to Reserve Bank of India (RBI) data, banks' deposit growth stood at 11.34% as on September 20, 2024, compared to 10.96% as of September 6. The deposit accretion rate grew at 12.55% as of June 28.

The deposit rate growth ranged from 10.64% to 11.09% between July 12 and September 6, according to the latest data. On the other hand, credit growth remained stable at about 13% over the period.

The provisional numbers reported by banks have shown that deposit growth rate on a yearly basis was higher in the second quarter of the current financial year compared to the first quarter.

Bank of Baroda saw 9.11% rise in its global deposits in Q2, compared to 8.83% rise in Q1. Similarly, its domestic deposits rose 7.14% in Q2 as against 5.25% in Q1. Union Bank of India reported a 9.17% increase in deposits in the September quarter as against 8.52% in the June quarter, while IDFC First Bank's deposits grew 32.2% in the quarter. HDFC Bank saw a steady deposit growth at 15%.

Banks have been struggling with slower deposit growth compared to credit growth over the past few years, leading to asset liability mismatches. This rising gap has been a matter of concern for the government and the RBI, which has asked banks to focus more on deposit mobilisation through innovative products.

Meanwhile, Care Ratings in a note said credit growth is trending down and continues to converge with deposit growth on an annual basis. Further, if growth rate is compared with December 2023, deposit and credit growth are generally in line with each other now.

While credit offtake increased 7.3% over December 2023 and touched ₹171.2 trillion as of September 20, deposits rose at 7.1% to reach ₹215.1 trillion during this period, driven by growth in time deposits.

In absolute terms, over the past nine months, credit offtake expanded by ₹10.9 trillion to reach ₹171.3 trillion as of September 20. Deposits rose at 7.1% compared to December 2023 and reached ₹215.1 lakhs crore as of September 20, deposits have expanded by ₹14.2 trillion. Deposits have remained prominent in FY25 as banks have intensified efforts to strengthen their liability franchise.

Credit growth remains stable at 13% in Jul-Sept

Deposit rate growth ranged from 10.64% to 11.09% between Jul 12 and Sept 6, as per latest data. On the other hand, credit growth remained stable at 13% over the period. Provisional numbers reported by banks have shown deposit growth rate on a yearly basis was higher in Q2.

Spain & Barca great Iniesta hangs up boots

Andres Iniesta, who scored Spain's World Cup-winning goal in 2010 and was one of the key players who made Barcelona's tiki-taka thrive for so long, announced his retirement from soccer on Tuesday. The 40-year-old Iniesta ended a 22-year career that also included two European Championship titles and four Champions League trophies.

EYES ON THE TARGET

Walking the tightrope in the proverbial group of death, India can ill-afford another reverse

IT could have been chaos given the situation surrounding India's next fixture at the ongoing T20 World Cup (Sri Lanka). However, the team opted to choose calm in the practice session at the ICC Academy on the eve of probably one of the most important fixtures of this tournament.

Firstly, a bit of context. After the 58-run loss against New Zealand, India faced Pakistan to not just earn their first win and take two points from the match but to also try to get a boost to their net run rate. The first part did happen. However, the boost to the run rate never came. On top of that, there was a massive injury scare with captain Hermanpreet Kaur leaving the field due to injury. The list of problems looked as big as the desert surrounding the country.

But there was a light at the end of the tunnel once captain Kaur was declared fit. Vice-captain Smriti Mandhana informed that in the press conference. "She is doing fine and she will be fine for tomorrow (Wednesday)," Mandhana said. While the captain was able to make a recovery, questions over Pooja Vastrakar's return to the playing Xi reminded. "Pooja, I think the medical team is still working on her. So, the update will come only tomorrow during the match. I think the only person who wasn't available for the last match was Pooja. Everyone is fit and ready to play. So, there are no availability issues for anyone else," Mandhana mentioned.

When asked about the run rate coming into the picture as a buzzword right from the moment India suffered a loss against New Zealand, Mandhana explained why the team put that added pressure behind to just concentrate on winning against Pakistan. "It definitely was the last match, but as I said, the conditions are a lot different to what you expect as a batter so you are probably thinking to get that run rate high and also you have to win the match first. That's the first priority for us. So, I think it's a balance between trying to find out what's the best for the team. Of course, you know in the last match I couldn't start off fine but then later on I consumed a few dot balls which was a little irritating for me but I think having said that as batters we have to be smart. We can't just go out there thinking that 'oh we are going to take on this bowling lineup and we are just going to cruise' because of course the conditions and the outfield is a lot different.

'We have to keep that net run rate in mind. But first winning the match. And then going on and thinking about the net run rate. The group is definitely a bit tricky. I think it's just the start. We don't want to go ahead thinking a lot about what will happen. One day at a time. And if at all tomorrow there's a place where we think about the net run rate, we'll be trying to get it. The win is the priority."

That is what was on display in the practice when almost every member of the team except Kaur showed up for practice. Mandhana spent an extended amount of time discussing her bat flow with head coach Amol Muzumdar, who also helped Richa Ghosh with the high catching under lights. Almost every player in the squad including the likes of Dayalan Hemalatha and Yastika Bhatia, who have not gotten the opportunity to be part of the playing XI, also freed their arms while facing net bowlers. However, it was Jemimah Rodrigues who batted the most under the lights. During the end of the practice session, she did get hit by a ball, but she was at her cheerful best as the support staff was looking after her.

The most important sign for Indian fans was that one of their most consistent pacers, Vastrakar, gave her best in the nets as she bowled for a while and even batted for a bit.

The fixture against Sri Lanka is a must-win for both sides if they are to remain in contention for the semi-final spot. Sri Lanka captain Chamari Athapaththu put it best. "I know that tomorrow's game is really crucial for India and Sri Lanka. So, the best team will win and if we can keep it simple," she said. And that's the truth of the matter. Whoever keeps their head down and nerves managed will stay alive in the group of death.

White Ferns go down to Aus

In what could be called as a hammering, New Zealand lost to Australia by 60 runs in Sharjah on Tuesday. Batting first Australia posted 148/8 on a slow and low surface. Beth Mooney was the top-scorer with 40 runs as Amelia Kerr took 4/26. In response, New Zealand were bundled out for 88 in 19.2 overs. With wickets falling at regular intervals, New Zealand lost the plot. With this result, their net run-rate took a beating as they went from second place to third (-0.05). Brief scores: Australia 148/8 in 20 ovs (Mooney 40; Kerr 4/26) bt Nz 88 all out in 19.2 ovs (Kerr 29; Schutt 3/3, Sutherland 3/21).

KAUR FIT, BUT QUESTIONS REMAIN OVER POOJA

Captain Harmanpreet Kaur, who suffered an injury in the chase against Pakistan has been declared fit to play in the important fixture against Sri Lanka. However, there is no certainty about Pooja Vastrakar's participation in the playing XI. The pacer bowled only one over in the opening match and could not participate in the second match against Pakistan.

Do or die? Not yet for India

PROTEAS TEST FOR SCOTLAND

Playing their first T20 World Cup, Scotland have impressed the crowd with their spirit. They have to face South Africa next, who are coming to this fixture after a narrow loss against England in Sharjah. The Proteas need this win to remain in contention for the semi-final, against the opposition they have not faced, which makes up for an interesting battle.

Sydney suburbs to T20 WC via Scotland: The Saskia story

KALYANI MANGALE @ Dubai

SASKIA Horley started playing football and cricket in her backyard with her dad while growing up in Sydney. She was a part of the Gordon Women's Cricket Club while playing some football for Northern Tigers FC. One thing led to another and she got to feature in an episode of the series called 'Undercover Coach' by Disney Channel in Australia, where an international athlete would coach the young player for a day. Naturally, Horley's coach was dual international Ellyse Perry, who had represented her national side in both sports at that time.

It has been years since that episode aired, but Horley still gets plenty of questions about the experience of meeting her hero, even from her Scotland teammates. And she never shies away from answering. "People still ask me about it to this day, even on this team so it's great," Horley told this daily before the World Cup. "I love it when it's brought up. It was an experience that I was very grateful to have that a lot of people didn't have the opportunity to do that. It's going to be fun to see Pez around the hotel. I was a very young child at that point, but different now," she added.

Starting with the domestic setup in New South Wales, Horley took a decision to represent her mother's heritage through the Scotland national team. Despite not knowing the players, it didn't take her a lot of time to find a bond with her Scotland teammates. "The moment I first saw the girls in that first training it was a great feeling. I met Rachel Slater first who was the best person to meet in that instance because it was just going to be so relaxed and we got along well. It is an amazing group to be a part of and everyone's so welcoming to new girls and it's a really good group," Horley cannot stop smiling while talking about her teammates.

After playing alongside Abtaha Maqsood in the English domestic setup in Sunrisers, Horley knew about her a bit, but then captain Kathryn Bryce has been someone who has looked after her. "It's outstanding. I hadn't come across Brycie before just because I was so far away from Scotland. She is a great leader on the field. It is nice to have someone have your back in any sort of situation without her even needing to tell you. Abs (Abtaha) is outstanding. I think she's like a silent assassin and doesn't get to show too much emotion sometimes I think but her passion and pride for Scotland is something you can see from miles away which is special," she added.

When asked about her wish list, Horley cheekily said she wants to score at least a run and take a wicket. In the first match against Bangladesh in Sharjah she ticked both of those boxes. Even her best individual bowling figures came in Scotland's World Cup opener. "I would like to score at least one run. Love to take wickets because it would be really fun. I think to take in the whole experience and then win a match would be the cherry on top. I think to get at least one win as a whole team would be outstanding," she added.

No loss to IOA due to RIL deal, says chief Usha

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

THE allegation and counter-allegation between the Indian Olympic Association president and the Executive Committee members have taken another turn. This time IOA chief PT Usha claimed that there was no loss to the organisation because of renegotiating a deal that the IOA had entered with Reliance Industries Limited (RIL) for a National Olympic Committee (NOC) house at the Games.

Usha was responding to allegations that a revised deal with RIL had caused a loss of ₹24 crore to the IOA. During an interaction with the media at the IOA Bhavan in New Delhi she explained what transpired while the renegotiations were on and also refuted allegations levelled by IOA treasurer Sahdev Yadav that the EC had been kept in dark about the revised negotiation."All EC members were informed and even (then acting CEO) Kalyan Chaubey also had sent the mail to the EC," she said. During the conversation, she highlighted that she had been trying to do whatever possible to calm the EC but somehow it is not working. Usha said that the EC members are not allowing her to perform her duties and also that the EC members are there in every committee. Usha also alleged that the EC is giving affiliation to federations without taking the general body's approval. "When I joined the IOA as president, one EC member wanted to put four names — senior vice president, vice president and joint secretary's names. How is this possible? That's why I am against this," she claimed. "I want to go with people but these are the things. They are not giving salaries to people for the last four months. He (treasurer) is not signing cheques. There is no memento in the IOA to give to people because they are not signing cheques."

"Show me where I did wrong? Because the IOC is pressurising. When CEO appointment comes they will object. You cannot change the constitution that's been done by sports ministry, Sports Authority of India, International Olympic Committee (IOC) and other stakeholders. If you have a problem then one should have objected at that time and once everything is done they object. They say 10-year experience and 25 crore turnover should be taken out. Kalyan Chaubey wanted to change the constitution and the IOC came to know about this and they said no one can alter the constitution without the permission of the IOC," she said. "They said you can go to the court and take out that clause ₹25 crore turnover but they are not doing. If you want more money, the corporate CEO should do it, not the president. I have not seen anywhere this type of EC meeting," she said. "Once only it took place that was when the CEO appointment was done. Afterward, no EC meeting has been recorded. They want to take the minutes and they change the minutes and want me to sign. How can I sign? They will make a video and will be insulting me very badly. If they show the full video no problem but they want to show me as an autocrat."

IOC receives letter from IOA

The IOA had an informal chat with the Future Hosts Commission of the IOC, that oversees the bidding process through continuous dialogues on Monday. The commission acknowledged that they received the formal letter expressing India's interest to host the 2036 Olympics. Usha confirmed that the IOC had received the formal letter as per the vision of the Prime Minister. The meeting on Monday went off well and the commission told India to form a bid committee so that they have a formal point of contact for the bidding process. The meeting on Monday went off well and the IOC told India to form a bid committee so that they have a formal point of contact for the bidding process.

This has to be done before the next Future Hosts Commission meeting scheduled on November 18-19. The IOC has told the IOA that the bid committee besides other members must have the IOA president and the CEO in it and should be formed before the November 18-19 meeting. The IOC also told the IOA that they can give the name of host city/cities later.

SKY & Co look to seal T20I series

AGENCIES @ New Delhi

AN India so dominant that Bangladesh is admittedly clueless about how to match the "skills and mentality" of Suryakumar Yadav's men.

The script is not expected to deviate much when the two sides clash in the second T20 International here on Wednesday with the home team's young mavericks proving more than a handful for the full-strength visitors. Bangladesh have hardly looked like the plucky opponents that they are hyped to be but India have looked every bit the marauding force that loves to intimidate on home turf. Even as Bangladesh are looking to level series for veteran Mahmadullah, who will be retiring by the end of this series, India are favourties to seal the series. The 38-year-old, who made his debut in 2007, has played 50 Tests, 232 ODIs and 139 T20Is.

CHESS

World c'ship is over 40 days away but there's a giant favourite—Gukesh

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

IN the lead up to big matches — finals of tournaments, winner-takes-all boxing bouts and glamour once-in-a-generation ties — both protagonists carefully weigh their words. This unwritten principle also applies to people who have an interest in the said big match. The only position they take is on top of the fence, opting to play it safe.

Over the last few months, one title match has seemingly deviated from the norm. Arjun Erigaisi, when he was asked to predict the Ding Liren vs D Gukesh match-up for this daily, said it would be a 'massacre'. Anish Giri, currently featuring at the Global Chess League (GCL) in London, called Gukesh as a 'giant favourite'. R Praggnanandhaa, who created history with Gukesh by his side at the Olympiad last month, sang from the same hymn sheet. While the likes of Richard Rapport, a big part of Liren's support staff during his victory over Ian Nepomniachtchi in 2023, was more cautious in his assessment, the overwhelming sentiment is pretty clear. As long as other things remain constant between now and the first game, scheduled to be held in Singapore's Sentosa Resorts from November 25, Gukesh just needs to turn up. Such talk, though, is not based around hubris but based on the recent form.

In Gukesh's last event, the Olympiad in Hungary, he won two gold. Liren's last win in a rated Classical game came in January. It's why the Chinese himself has been a bit circumspect while talking about the upcoming battle with the Indian teen. "It doesn't seem like I have been playing the way I used to," he told The Straits Times in an interview a few days ago. He has also been fairly intimate with his off-the-board struggles since becoming the world champion last year. "I feel okay, neither good nor bad," he continued to the Singapore-based media house. "I'm not at my lowest and have walked out of the darkness from the last 1.5 years..." In an interview to this publication earlier this year, Liren admitted to having problems sleeping. "My sleep has not been good," he had said in May.

While most of the chess world have thought the final as a foregone conclusion because of some of the above reasons, the 31-year-old has one distinct advantage. The know-how of playing in a world championship match. "If I look at current numbers, Gukesh is the favourite but I don't think that's the case," Rapport told this daily. "A world championship is different, you cannot compare."

Praggnanandhaa had a similar take. "I also think Gukesh is the favourite and Ding is not in the best shape but the world championship is a completely different event and the pressure is immense." While Giri took cognisance of the pressure, he doesn't see 'why we should expect any surprise at the match'. "Taking the paths they are on now... Gukesh should be becoming world champion." Wei Yi, who was Liren's teammate at the Olympiad, just 'wants to see a wonderful championship' as a fellow professional. "As Ding's friend and teammate, I want him to win. As a professional player, I want to see a good match. Ding is maybe not in the best shape now but he can recover as quickly as possible."

In sport, the one true maxim is anything can happen. It doesn't come with a guarantee. But for that to happen, Liren has to improve. And fast.

A colony of emperor penguins in Antarctica.

FOR THE LAST FOUR DECADES AT LEAST, THE ANTARCTIC PENINSULA HAS BEEN NOTICING A RAPID INCREASE IN VEGETATION, AS ITS ICE SHEET MELTS, REVEALING YET ANOTHER DETRIMENTAL EFFECT OF CLIMATE CHANGE

GREEN AT THE SOUTH POLE

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

THE fifth-largest continent, the magical Antarctica, which dominates the South Pole in all its mysterious isolation, began to form as an ice sheet 34-35 million years ago. The formation of this ice sheet was a result of a number of factors, predominantly the movement of continents, in what is known as the 'Continental Drift'. South America and Tasmania, which had been connected to Antarctica for millions of years, began drifting North. Along with this, the opening of the Drake Passage, the strait between South America and Antarctica, allowed cold water to flow around Antarctica, which further isolated it from warm ocean currents and contributed to the formation of the ice sheet. Meanwhile, global temperatures had been steadily decreasing for 16 million years before the ice sheet formed, which further intensified the ecological situation Antarctica finds itself in today. Hence, it can be understood that under the ice sheet rests an expanse of green, frozen in time. Accordingly, scientists have theorised that before the ice sheet formed, Antarctica was more like Northern Canada today, where tundra and coniferous forests abound.

Global warming, with the inevitable climate change, have affected a host of natural environments and topographies across continents, with massive ice sheets and glaciers falling victim to these disruptive vagaries of nature, and melting away at an alarming rate. While this has been documented in the Arctic region, where the glaciers are disintegrating due to human activities that have raised temperatures, a similar trend is being observed in the Antarctic too. Vegetation cover across the Antarctic peninsula has increased ten-folds over the last four decades, largely due to its ice sheet warming faster than the global average, as extreme heat events fuelled by the global climate crisis rapidly engulfs the cold continent, new research shows, highlighting that the spread of plant life, predominantly mosses, has accelerated since 2016.

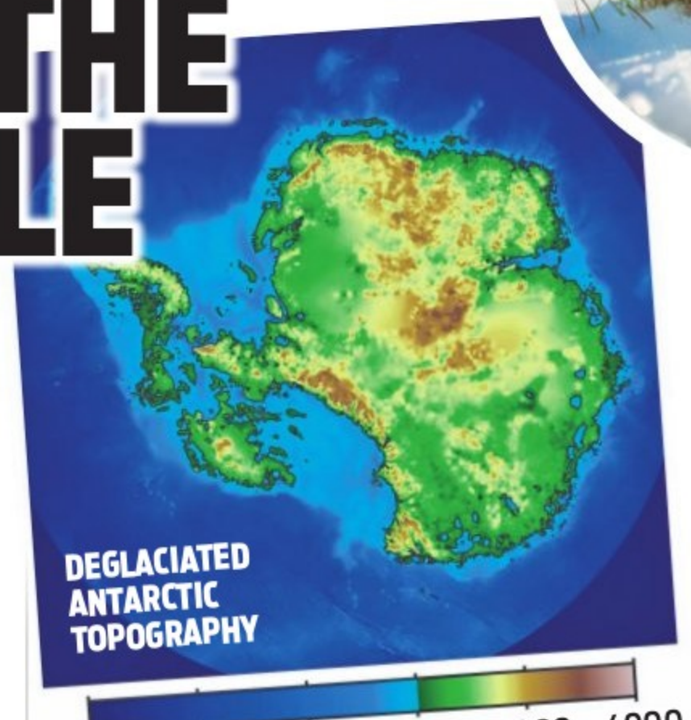
The new study, carried out by the universities of Exeter and Hertfordshire, and the British Antarctic Survey, used satellite data to assess how much the Antarctic peninsula has been "greening" in response to climate change. It found that the area of plant cover across the peninsula increased from less than 1 sq km in 1986, to almost 12 sq km by 2021. Satellite imagery also confirmed that the widespread greening trend, across the peninsula, is only accelerating.

Published in journal Nature Geoscience, the study paper – titled "Satellites evidence sustained greening of the Antarctic Peninsula" – also found that this greening trend accelerated by over 30% in recent years (2016-2021), relative to the full study period (1986-2021), expanding by over 400,000 sqm per year in this duration. In a previous study, which examined core samples taken from moss-dominated ecosystems on the Antarctic peninsula, the team found evidence of plant growth increasing dramatically in recent decades.

"The plants we find on the Antarctic peninsula – mostly mosses – grow in perhaps the harshest conditions on Earth," says Dr Thomas Roland from the University of Exeter, adding, "The landscape is still almost entirely dominated by snow, ice and rock, with only a tiny fraction colonised by plant life... But that tiny fraction has grown dramatically, showing that even this vast and isolated wilderness is being affected by anthropogenic climate change."

Dr Olly Bartlett from the University of Hertfordshire mentions: "As these ecosystems become more established, and the climate continues to warm, it's likely that the extent of greening will increase."

"Soil in Antarctica is mostly poor or non-existent, but this increase in plant life will add organic matter, and facilitate soil formation – potentially paving the way for other plants to grow. This raises the risk of non-native and invasive species arriving, possibly carried by eco-tourists, scientists or other visitors to the continent," he warns. The researchers emphasise the urgent need for further research to establish the specific climate and environmental mechanisms that are driving the greening trend.



MELTING THE FACTS

- Antarctica is the Earth's southern-most and least-populated continent, situated almost entirely south of the Antarctic Circle and surrounded by the Southern Ocean
- It is the fifth-largest continent, about 40% larger than Europe, and has an area of 14,200,000 sq km
- Most of the continent is covered by the Antarctic ice sheet, with an average thickness of 1.9 km
- It was in 1773 that Britain's Captain James Cook became the first adventurer to enter Antarctica. In 1911, Norwegian explorer Roald Amundsen reached the South Pole
- Antarctica is a polar desert, and is the coldest, driest, and windiest continent, with the highest average elevation of 2,500 metres
- About 70% of the world's freshwater reserves are frozen in Antarctica, which, if melted, would raise global sea levels by almost 60 metres
- Antarctica holds the record for the lowest measured temperature on Earth, at −89.2°C
- Native species of animals include mites, nematodes, penguins, seals and tardigrades. Vegetation occurs in the form of lichens or mosses
- Antarctica is governed by about 30 countries, which are all parties of the 1959 Antarctic Treaty System
- Military activity, mining, nuclear explosions, and nuclear waste disposal are prohibited in Antarctica, while tourism is permitted
- Between 1,000 and 4,000 scientists work on the continent, across 70 research stations, round the year

An icy world

"The sensitivity of the Antarctic peninsula's vegetation to climate change is now clear and, under future anthropogenic warming, we could see fundamental changes to the biology and landscape of this iconic and vulnerable region," says Dr Roland, who co-led the study.

He adds: "Our findings raise serious concerns about the environmental future of the Antarctic peninsula, and of the continent as a whole. In order to protect Antarctica, we must understand these changes and identify precisely what is causing them." Accordingly, the researchers are now investigating how recently deglaciated (ice-free) landscapes are colonised by plants, and how the process might proceed into the future.

Rise in sea levels

The melting of Antarctica's ice sheets raises serious concerns, especially with the rise in sea levels. The Antarctic ice sheet contains enough ice (and fresh water) to raise global sea levels by 60 meters if it all melted. Already, each year, the sheet loses an average of 150 billion metric tons of ice, with the years between 2002 and 2017 alone noticing ice sheets contributing to a third of the total mean sea-level rise on the planet. A 2016 Nature study concluded that Antarctica could contribute more than a meter of sea-level rise by 2100, and more than 15 metres by 2500. A 2021 study also stated that if the world continues on its current emissions trajectory, the cold continent might experience a jolt in ice melt around 2060. The resultant sea-level rise would not only affect the Earth's natural cycles and biosphere at large, but significantly increase coastal flooding and eventually inundate coastal cities and communities.

Besides, it would also catastrophically disrupt life cycles of Antarctic fauna, such as penguins and seals, which will face habitat and food losses, leading to mass migrations or extinctions itself. Meanwhile, unusual patterns of greening have also been reported in the Arctic, such as in 2021 when rain, and not snow, fell on the summit of Greenland's huge ice cap for the first time on record, indicating a drastic temperature shift. It's about time we turned down the heat!

Green cover that's not good

The greening of Antarctica is a sign of global heating, which is warming the continent faster than the global average. This has several negative implications:

It could lead to more soil formation, which could make the region ground for invasive species that could harm local wildlife

Since darker plants absorb more heat, it could reduce Antarctica's ability to reflect sunlight

It could alter the region's ecosystem dynamics, potentially affecting soil composition, carbon cycles, and local food webs

It could lead to fundamental changes to the biology and landscape of the region

The largest ice shelf on Earth, roughly the size of France, the Ross ice shelf is melting 10 times faster than average too

That's the whole problem with science. You've got a bunch of empiricists trying to describe things of unimaginable wonder.

RECLOTHING CLOTHES

INNOVATIVELY TRANSFORMING TEXTILES FOR A GREEN FUTURE

Not to miss the bus to a greener future, the textile industry too is being explored as a candidate for replacing existing material with sustainable alternatives. Aiming at revolutionizing textiles, researchers from North Carolina State University have brought non-wood cellulose fibres under the spotlight through an innovative research with a focus to explore sustainability in fibre production. Their study is exploring the potential of non-wood feed stocks to produce man-made cellulosic fibres. Now, this is a sector that is traditionally dominated by wood-derived pulp, while the research is being conducted in the background of rising environmental concerns over synthetic fibres accounting for more than half of the fashion industry's market share. The NCSU researchers are offering a promising direction with their work on non-wood cellulose-based textiles. As part of these efforts — and the study — the most interesting part is their focus on exploring an emerging method which involves fibre spinning from a hydrogel made of nano or micro fibre suspension. They are exploring the unique potential of this method which they feel can revolutionise the textile industry while providing a more sustainable and efficient way to produce textiles, while reducing the pressures on the conventional means of textile production. Textile production globally is increasing in tandem with the demand, and this is putting pressure on the resources, which in turn is impacting the environment. The researchers are also highlighting the potential of non-wood sources like dedicated fibre crops and agricultural residues to offer eco-friendly alternatives. Stressing on innovation while focusing on eco-friendly methods, the researchers also highlight various technologies suitable for producing textile-grade fibres from non-wood-based dissolving pulp. But challenges are there: raw material impurities, adaptation to prevailing equipment and integrating non-wood feedstocks into MMCF production. But it's worth the pursuit.

BEHIND THE SCIENCE

CHIEN-SHIUNG WU

THE FIRST LADY OF PHYSICS

POOJA K

Born on May 31, 1912, in Jiangsu province of China, a time when women's education was rare in China, Chien-Shiung Wu was a woman who defied social norms and made her mark in the field of science by becoming the most influential physicist of the 20th century. She was a physicist whose prowess revolutionised our understanding of the subatomic world. Chien-Shiung Wu was a Chinese-born American physicist who proved that the principle of parity conservation does not occur in weak subatomic interactions, and this groundbreaking experiment changed the landscape of particle physics. She was from a middle-class family that valued education. She graduated from National Central University, Nanjing, in 1934. She pursued her interest in physics at the University of California, Berkeley, and studied under Ernest O Lawrence. Wu was also a part of the Manhattan Project (building nuclear weapons during World War II), where she was involved in the development of the atomic bomb. She was responsible for enriching uranium and detecting radiation technologies. She is mostly known for her notable work – 'using cobalt-60, an isotope that undergoes beta decay – under this project, through which she showed that parity was not conserved in weak nuclear interactions. Though she made this significant contribution to the field of physics, Wu did not receive the Nobel Prize for this specific work, but she created a legacy that is enshrined in the numerous awards and honours she garnered throughout her career. Wu passed away on February 16, 1997, in New York City.

HOW IT WORKS

THE SCENT OF RAIN HAS A NAME

ABHIJEET KABAD

WITH heavy rain lashing several parts of the country, there is a familiar, all-pervading smell that seems to envelope us; an earthy fragrance of nostalgia, it is what makes us love the monsoon more and more. Even as people tend to push travel plans and choose to wait out the rain instead, the whiff of soil, as persistent raindrops lay a wet film of water over it, makes this waiting time all the more memorable. The smell of rain has a name, the not-so-common 'petrichor'.

The term 'petrichor' first came into use in 1964, when scientists Isabel Joy Bear and Richard Grenfell Thomas of Australia tried to explain the earthy smell associated with rain. It was mentioned in the journal Nature, in an article titled, "Nature of Argillaceous Odour".

Petrichor occurs when rainwater falls on dry soil, hence releasing a mixture of chemicals and oils into the atmosphere. The distinctive smell from the moistening of earth is a result of bacteria, plants, other organic matter, and even lightning to a certain extent. Generally, the characteristic smell is caused by bacteria. Actinomycetes, a filamentous kind of bacteria, usually develops in the soil when the conditions are warm and damp. Eventually, when the soil dries, the bacteria create spores in it. When it rains, the wetness and force of the raindrops propel these tiny spores into the air, where the moisture from the rain performs the role of aerosol. The moist air efficiently carries the spores to us, which we breathe in, and derive the smell. This is a cyclical process.

Further, the smell of rain itself is caused by a chemical in Actinomycetes called Geosmin. However, this is released by the bacteria after their death. Geosmin, which has a very impactful scent, is a type of alcohol molecule. It is a very common type of bacteria, found across the world. Geosmin is produced by streptomyces, which is present in most healthy soils. They are also responsible for creating commercial antibiotics.

Another prominent reason for the smell is the oil that is released by plants into the air. This oil is secreted by plants during the dry period. The fauna of the region, which includes stearic and palmitic acids, add to the whiff of petrichor.

Another scent associated with rain is ozone. When a thunderstorm strikes, lightning can divide the oxygen and nitrogen molecules in the atmosphere, which recombine with nitric oxide. This substance associates with chemicals in the atmosphere to form ozone. This smell is faintly reminiscent of chlorine.

Humans have for long associated petrichor with the arrival of rain. Apart from the physiological reaction, it can also impact the autonomic nervous system. This part of our nervous system controls involuntary body movements like breathing. Petrichor results in decrease in ANS activity, leading to sensations of relaxation, calmness and wellbeing. While the petrichor originating from clay-based soils are earthier, petrichor from sandy soils can be sweeter and citrusy. Petrichor can also be a delight for chocolate lovers, as the aroma given out by rocky soils is likened to melted chocolate.

Meanwhile, it has been found that the rain-drenched soil has been captured in Uttar Pradesh for ages, and sold as a perfume called "Matti ka Attar".

Although humans are drawn to the scent of Geosmin, the majority of them dislike its taste. Although it is non-toxic, when present in mineral water or wine, it can put people off.

A CURATED GUIDE TO HAPPENINGS IN THE CITY

From local road trips to international retreats, Bengalureans are embracing the Dasara break with a mix of cultural immersions, nature-focused relaxation, and global getaways

DASARA DASHA

DESE GOWDA

AS the city embraces the spirit of Dasara, Bengalureans are cashing in on a much-needed break. The holidays have spurred demand for destinations across India and abroad, as people seek a variety of experiences, ranging from authentic cultural celebrations, to scenic, laid-back getaways and affordable international adventures.

While Mysuru's grand Dasara celebrations remain a strong draw, more residents are opting for quieter locations, away from the crowds. Ranjini Nambiar of Footloose Yatra notes, "Mysuru is still a key attraction, but others seeking a relaxed experience, are going to places like Kannur, where the festivities are equally lively. Coastal areas near Mangaluru are seeing increased interest this year, though heavy rains have led to some cancellations."

Bia Sandhu

A quest for unique experiences has pushed Bengalureans to destinations like Azerbaijan

For Bia Sandhu, an image stylist, the holiday is perfect for a quick family trip to Kodagu with a stopover in Mysuru to experience Dasara. "My family, husband, kids, along with our dogs, wanted to go somewhere within driving distance where we could enjoy time together. Since we have never seen the Mysuru Dasara, one of the biggest celebrations in India, we thought it would be great to include that," she says.

Mohammed Imran, founder of Prestige Holidays Tours and Travel, notes that like Sandhu, many are taking advantage of the short holiday season by visiting local destinations that offer a mix of culture and natural beauty. "Currently, Gokarna and Chikkamagaluru are popular spots," he says, adding, "Places in Kerala like Kollam, Kochi, and Alleppey, along with Tamil Nadu's Mahabalipuram and Puducherry, are seeing a rise in visitors. Goa and Darjeeling are also in demand." All-inclusive packages typically last seven days and six nights, starting at around ₹20,000, quickly rising in cost according to the destination.

Meanwhile, some Bengalureans are opting for quick international trips, with destinations ranging from nearby locations like Dubai, the Maldives, and Mauritius to farther spots like Turkey and Baku, Azerbaijan, which have gained popularity this holiday season. Arjit from IRI iFLY Holidays notes, "Since the holiday season began, there's been a noticeable increase in people travelling abroad, especially to Dubai, where the weather is favourable now." Most international packages, depending on the destination, typically start at around ₹70,000.

Nambiar shares that the growing interest in destinations like Baku is due to hassle-free travel and a quest for unique experiences. She further highlights a noticeable shift toward quieter, nature-focused getaways. "Having moved away from their hometowns, many prefer spending the holidays in smaller towns, experiencing local traditions in a relaxed setting. It's more about immersing in local experiences," she adds.

Mitsubishi Pajero Owners Conquer Betathur Off-Road Trails in Kodagu

Under the patronage of the Indian Mitsubishi Owners Klub (IMOK), over 25 Mitsubishi Pajero owners gathered for an exhilarating off-roading experience at Betathur Off-Road Trails in Kodagu, Karnataka.

IMOK, a non-profit organization, aims to enhance the ownership experience of Mitsubishi enthusiasts across India by fostering knowledge and camaraderie. The iconic Pajero, renowned for its 12-time Paris Dakar Rally victories, has a dedicated fan base in India.

Participants included seasoned off-roaders and newcomers, all navigating challenging trails that tested their skills and their vehicles. Despite morning drizzle, the Pajeros excelled on the muddy, steep inclines, thanks to their advanced 4x4 super select transmission.

The event left participants thrilled, with IMOK planning future regional meets and an all-India gathering in an exotic location, potentially in Arunachal Pradesh or the Northeast.

KNOW YOUR CITY

Arun Prasad, city-based history researcher, unravels interesting facts about Bengaluru in this weekly quiz series. So it's time for you to find out how familiar you are with the city, beyond its heritage buildings, IT parks and the pub culture.

1 Tipu Sultan was barely 13 when he accompanied his father Hyder Ali on the latter's Malabar mission in 1763 from which he has emerged to be known as the Tiger of Mysore', the most powerful ruler of southern India. During his reign, Tipu enhanced the trade activities in Bengaluru, promoted the silk trade, set up sericulture hubs, and invited weavers and designers from different parts of the country. Tipu actively developed Lalbagh and completed the works of a grand Palace in 1791. Tipu also strengthened the military aspects of the city, manufactured rockets and built armoury. Which burgeoning locality today on the northern outskirts of Bengaluru was Tipu Sultan born? Yelahanka or Devanahalli?

2 The Anglo-Mysore Wars were a series of four wars fought between the British and the rulers of Mysore during the latter half of the 18th century. Tipu Sultan, became the British's fiercest foe until he was defeated and killed in 1799 in the fourth war. One of the few relics that exist in Bengaluru from the Anglo- Mysore war era is the Tipu Sultan's Armoury. Which historic area in Bengaluru is the underground armoury located? Kamakshipalya or Kalasipalya?

3 Of the many royal residences that Tipu Sultan built, the Summer Palace at Bengaluru was a magnificent one. A major portion of the summer palace that exists today was commenced by Hyder Ali in 1778 and completed by Tipu in 1791. There exists another summer palace (though not on the same grand scale) built by Tipu on a historic hill on the outskirts of Bengaluru. Name the hills.

TIRYAKA TADASANA BLOCK

(SWAYING PALM TREE POSE BLOCK)

This is a level-up variation of Parsva Bhanga (Palm Tree Pose Side Bend). The placing of the block between the palms adds more strength to the hands. It helps assist in the correct alignment of the pose. This is a simple way to build strength in the chest, triceps, biceps and serratus anterior over the side ribs.

STEPS

- Stand with your feet together in Palm Tree Prep Pose with the block in between your palms. Align the feet near each other without any gap. Beginners can keep a little gap between their feet for better alignment.
- Stretch the arms up above your head, keep the elbow straight.
- Inhale, lift the torso, especially the sides of the body as you press the heels and toes to the ground.
- Exhale, bend to the right with the lifted torso, ensuring chest is open, and hips face front. Keep the entire body engaged.
- Stay here for 5 deep breaths or as per capacity. Inhale, losen the body gently. Exhale, bend deeper into the pose. Look at a point.
- To release, inhale and come back to the center. Repeat as you inhale at the center and exhale bending to the left.
- Release, relax and connect to your breath as you come back to Mountain Pose Palms Facing Forward.

VR FEROSE

(The writer is a technologist based in Silicon Valley who is gently mad about books)

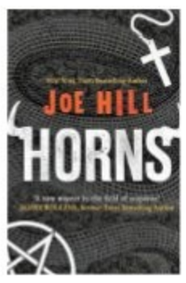
AFTER watching The Ring at the Rex Theatre, my friends and I were so terrified that we decided to sleep in the same room. At one point during the film, overwhelmed by fear, I even considered walking out. Gore Verbinski's 2002 American adaptation of Koji Suzuki's 1991 novel reshaped American horror cinema. The plot revolves around a cursed video: anyone who watches it will die within a week unless they make a copy. This concept might be one of the first instances of a 'viral' video! It's intriguing to consider how relevant this movie would be today, given that VHS tapes are obsolete.

I have often pondered why people willingly choose to watch horror movies or read scary books. The genre is peculiar; what terrifies one person may amuse another. Early horror films can seem laughable now. From ghosts and serial killers to creepy clowns, horror embraces a wide array of fears.

Personally, I prefer horror films to books, as the cinematic experience tends to be shorter and less tortuous. Classics such as Dracula, Interview with the Vampire, The Exorcist, Frankenstein, and It often dominate lists of famous horror literature.

I would not include the numerous Stephen King books, which can be considered a genre in itself! Instead, I want to highlight some lesser-known works. Joe Hill, son of King, is carving his own niche in horror. His dark fantasy novel Horns, published in 2010, features Ig Parish, who wakes up with horns after his girlfriend's murder.

These horns compel people to reveal their darkest secrets, as Ig seeks justice and confronts his grief. TIME Magazine hailed Hill as one of America's finest horror writers, noting how Horns blends contemporary fantasy, crime fiction, and Gothic elements.



In the Monster Show: A Cultural History of Horror, David J Skal examines the links between horror and social crises in American history. He argues that horror films reflect societal anxieties – from the traumas of the World Wars and the Great Depression to Cold War fears and the AIDS epidemic's connection to vampire lore.

Skal's analysis is both compelling and enlightening, exploring how horror has become a profound cultural expression, especially in recent years. For graphic novel enthusiasts, From Hell by Alan Moore and Eddie Campbell is a must-read. Serialised from 1989 to 1998, this graphic novel delves into the infamous Jack the Ripper murders and won multiple awards. A 2020 edition added colour for the first time, enhancing its already gripping narrative. While it straddles the line between horror and true crime, its storytelling and artwork are exceptional.

An absurd yet disturbing read is Haunted by Chuck Palahniuk, a collection of short stories. The premise follows 24 writers at a retreat who each share their life stories, revealing dark and often graphic tales. The stories intertwine in unexpected ways and are not for the faint-hearted.

In India, the horror genre is less pronounced, but ghost stories have long been a staple of childhood. My first exposure was through Vikram Aur Betaal on television. Ruskin Bond's works, such as Ghost Stories from the Raj, A Season of Ghosts, and A Face in the Dark and Other Hauntings, introduced me to ghostly narratives.

Kiran Manral's Face at the Window is gripping and chilling, resonating with those familiar with Anglo-Indian culture. Meanwhile, Jessica Faleiro's Afterlife: Ghost Stories from Goa presents eight tales revolving around the Fonseca family's birthday in a haunted mansion.

Horror as a genre aims to frighten, disgust, or startle readers, offering a glimpse into the darker aspects of human experience. It allows us to confront fears from the safety of our own couches, immersing us in an exploration of the unknown.

Genpact and SCEAD Foundation Plant 7,000 Saplings in Bengaluru South to Promote Sustainability 2024

In an effort to combat climate change, the SCEAD Foundation, in collaboration with Genpact India, launched an ambitious initiative to plant 7,000 saplings across key locations in Bengaluru South. This initiative spans areas around eight lakes, government lands, farmers' lands, five colleges, two universities, and next to the new IIMB campus in Jigni, Anekal, and Bannerghatta.

The inauguration of the plantation drive took place at Christ Academy, where Sanjay Bhatia, the Assistant Vice President and CSR Head at Genpact India, shared his insights on climate change and its impacts on the environment. Bhatia emphasised the importance of corporate social responsibility in addressing global challenges. Alongside him, Agam Singh, a manager at Genpact, actively participated in planting saplings, highlighting the company's commitment to sustainability.

Around 400 employees of Genpact joined forces with 600 students from various local institutions. In a significant partnership with the Karnataka Forest Department, 4,000 saplings were handed over and planted on farmers' lands in Anekal. This initiative aims to support local agriculture and promote biodiversity, fostering a stronger relationship between the community and their natural environment.

The event also welcomed notable dignitaries, including James Godber, Deputy Head of Mission at the British Deputy High Commission in Bengaluru, who joined in planting saplings, and Nakane Tsutomu, Consul General of Japan in Bengaluru. Both Tsutomu and Achim Burkart, Consul General of Germany in Bengaluru, presented saplings at St. Joseph's University Bangalore to Siju Thomas Daniel, founder of the SCEAD Foundation, symbolising a commitment to world peace and environmental stewardship.

PRK PRODUCTIONS AND KRG STUDIOS JOINING FORCES FOR YUVA RAJKUMAR'S SECOND FILM?

The buzz is that Jayanna Films is also set to back this project, with an official announcement coming soon

A SHARADHAA

YUVA RAJKUMAR, coming from the Rajkumar lineage, made his silver screen debut in Yuva, directed by Santhosh Ananddram and produced by Hombale Films. Following the film's release on March 2024, Yuva rajkumar teased an update about his next project.

On another front, producer Karthik Gowda and his production partner Yogi G Raj have hinted at exciting developments under KRG Studios. His cryptic message—"'Back on track onto the next, a good week this is going to be!"—has ignited speculation about their next film.

Adding to the excitement, Ashwini Puneeth Rajkumar of PRK Productions has been in discussions to produce a film for Yuva rajkumar for some time now. This hints at a collaboration between the two major banners, PRK Productions and KRG Studios, for Yuva rajkumar's next project, and the anticipation is creating a buzz.

Moreover, sources indicate that Jayanna Films, led by Jayanna and Bhogendra, is lending its support to Yuva rajkumar's upcoming film. It remains to be seen who will sign up as the director of the film.

Sources say that the production houses are expected to unveil more details during the Dasara festivities this week, hinting at something truly special on the horizon for Yuva rajkumar and his collaborators.

CINEMA WITHOUT BORDERS

In this weekly column, the writer introduces you to powerful cinema from across the world

NAMRATA JOSHI

NO Other Land took me back to the 2011 documentary, Five Broken Cameras, for more reasons than one, but first and foremost for having been made by a Palestinian-Israeli collective—unimaginable, given the world's most ceaseless, remorseless and longest ongoing conflict, that is escalating to engulf the Middle-East, with no ceasefire in sight. While Five Broken Cameras, a Palestine-Israel-France co-production, had been directed together by a Palestinian farmer turned self-taught photographer Emad Burnat and an Israeli filmmaker Guy Davidi, No Other Land, a Palestine-Norway co-production, is the debut directorial of four activists-journalists-filmmakers—Basel Adra, Hamdan Ballal, Yuval Abraham and Rachel Szor—from the two sides of the political divide. Adra and Ballal are Palestinians and Abraham and Szor are Israelis.

The film had its premiere in the Panorama section of Berlinale earlier in February this year where it won the Berlinale Documentary Award and the Panorama Audience Award for Best Documentary. It recently played at the Toronto International Film Festival and the Busan International Film Festival and features in the World Cinema section of the upcoming Mumbai Film Festival (MAMI).

How No Other Land managed to take shape could well be the subject of a separate film. A case of cinema rising above disputes to become a marker of artistic resistance and human solidarity. Abraham got in touch with Adra, as an Israeli journalist covering the conflict. The friendship blossomed while working together on articles from the area which is when the idea of the film was also born. However, that doesn't stop the film from shining a light on the terrible inequities across the two sides of the divide. Adra and Abraham might have formed a rare bond but, instead of levelling the disparities, it throws the former's oppression in sharp relief against the latter's freedom. For example, the moment when Abraham hopes for the elusive stability when Adra would be able to visit him rather than him having to visit Adra. To which Adra's response is a monosyllabic "maybe". It's something both the friends observe and reflect on as the camera bears witness and records.

Like Five Broken Cameras, No Other Land is also an unwavering chronicle of the steady destruction and erasure of a country and its people. In Five Broken Cameras, Burnat diligently chronicled the protests in his hometown Bil'in in the West Bank where the agricultural lands and olive groves were getting seized by Israeli settlers, the army, and police.

No Other Land captures the forced displacement of people by Israel's army in Adra's homeland Masafer Yatta in the West Bank, something that he has been witnessing since childhood. There are video archives of Adra, his family and neighbours filmed over the course of the last 20 years. "I started filming when we started to end," says Adra in a poignant moment in the film. Then there is the fresh footage by the film's cinematographer and co-director Szor. The handheld camera, at considerable risk to itself and the person wielding it, unleashes the bulldozer mayhem of the occupiers in all its horror, bringing down homes and settlements, evicting the inhabitants, forcing them to move into and set up homes in dark and dank caves. All to build an Israeli military training camp in the land but the larger agenda of turning an entire community and civilization to dust.

Then there is the barbarism in targeting children. The painstakingly put-together footage is particularly horrifying in exposing how childhoods have been impaired over several decades in Palestine and not just in the here and the now.

A self-reflexive film on the besieged homeland, in which the personal is the political, No Other Land is a vital, urgent documentation of the human toll of conflict and a searing critique of war crimes and violence, state atrocities and authoritarianism. A documentary that is not just extremely moving and poignant but also incredibly powerful and riveting.

'Tang Tang' has been a hit not only for its catchy melody but also for its vibrant visuals that capture the spirit of the film. Lyricist Kaviraj described it as a 'perfect royal anthem,' highlighting the grandeur and energy of Royal. He expressed pride in contributing to a project that aims to celebrate the rich culture of Kannada cinema. He said, "The combination of Dinakar's direction, Charan Raj's music, and the chemistry between Viraat and Sanjana is something to look forward to."

Dinakar, making his return to directing after a five-year break, shared his heartfelt appreciation for the fans. He stated, "We owe our success to the support of our fans. Despite the challenges we face, we have always felt your love, and we ask for your continued support for this film and all Kannada films."

Music director Charan Raj also took a moment to express his thanks to the audience. "I am overwhelmed by the positive reception and grateful for the chance to be part of this project," he said.

Viraat and Sanjana Anand, the lead pair of Royal, shared their excitement along with the team as well. They said, "Jayanna and Bhogendra sir have made this possible, and we hope everyone continues to support the film."

With cinematography by Sanketh, Royal, produced by Jayanna Productions, is currently in post-production and is aiming for a release in November or December.

It's a wrap for Until Dawn live-action film

CE FEATURES

EARLIER this year, we reported about a live-action adaptation of the Until Dawn game being in the works, with David F Sandberg attached to direct. The other day, Sandberg took to Instagram to announce that production on the film has been completed. He made the announcement with a film slate featuring an official Until Dawn game-like logo. The film, based on a 2015 PlayStation game, went on floors in August this year.

In the interactive horror game, each user gets to choose their own adventure, with their choices having an impact on the result. The game revolves around some young adults who get back together at a mountain lodge following a tragedy among them. When a mystery killer begins to hunt them down, the nightmarish place becomes the last resort for them to keep themselves alive. The film is reportedly not looking to be a retelling of the same Until Dawn story, but it stars Peter Stormare in a role reprisal of therapist Dr Hill from the game. The new cast includes Ella Rubin, Michael Cimino, Ji-young Yoo, Odessa A'zion, Maia Mitchell, and Belmont Cameli.

Ellige Payana Yavudo Daari coming to theaters this October

CE FEATURES

ELLIGE Payana Yavudo Daari, featuring Abhimanyu Kashinath, the son of Kashinath, in the lead role, is set to hit theaters on October 25. Having caught the audience's attention in various ways, the promotional activities are in full swing as the release date approaches.

Produced by Jatin Patel under the Sudarshan Arts banner, the film is directed by Kiren S Suryaa, who has also written the story, screenplay, and dialogues. As the title suggests, this new venture from Kiran aims to defy traditional boundaries, weaving a complex and multi-faceted tale centred around a murder. The film, a love-thriller, promises to transport viewers to another world, according to the makers.

Spandana Udimane plays the female lead in the film, alongside Abhimanyu Kashinath. Vijayashree Kalaburgi also plays a key role, alongside a cast that includes Bala Rajwadi, Shobhan, Ayank, Rini Bopanna, Pradeep, Ravi Teja, Kishore, Ashwini Rao, and Priya, among others.

Pranav Rao composed music for the film, with cinematography by Satya Ram and lyrics by Pramod Maravanthe.

BNMIT Welcomes First Year B.E. Students with Inspiring Inauguration Ceremony

The first-year B.E. classes at BNMIT in Banashankari were recently inaugurated by Sri Veereshananda Saraswati Swamiji of Ramakrishna Math, Tumkur. He urged students to cultivate self-reliance and self-esteem, warning against the futility of idle chatter. "In many places, your marks may not even matter," he noted, highlighting that the primary challenge for today's youth is to express their individuality and existence authentically.

Swamiji remarked, "Today, you can acquire anything with money. However, finding individuals who embody goodness and humanity is far more challenging. A life rich in material possessions but lacking in kindness is ultimately meaningless."

He shared inspirational anecdotes from his experiences, stating, "I have transformed a school dropout into an engineer and the son of a laborer into a judge. Achievements are possible, but they require hard work."

Dr. G. N. Krishnamurthy, Deputy Director and Member of the Governing Body of BNMIT; Dr. K.R. Iqbal Ahmed, BNMIT Joint Secretary; Ashok R. Maanay, Chairman of the Governing Body of BNMIT; Narayana Rao R. Maanay, BNM Charity Trustee; Eishwar N. Maanay, Additional Director of the College; Dr. S.Y. Kulkarni; and Prof. T.J. Rama Murthy, Director of the College, were all present.

We have established a Skill Lab to provide essential skill training alongside numerous workshops and courses aimed at benefiting rural and underprivileged students. I encourage all students to take advantage of these opportunities.
